Hint American Foreign Policy Helped Force Conflict

ENVOYS NAMED

Claim Documents Seized In Polish Foreign Office in Warsaw

Berlin —(P)— Sixteen documents which German authorities said were found in the archives of the Polish foreign office in Warsaw were handed to the press by the Berlin foreign office tonight with the authorized comment that they shed "a most interesting light on the part which American policy played in bringing about the present war."

President Roosevelt and Joseph P. Kennedy and William C. Bullitt, United States ambassadors to London and Paris, were named in the documents. Some of them were represented as confidential reports by the Polish ambassadors to Washington, London and Paris and the Polish minister to Stockholm.

Among them are what were represented as a letter by Anthony Eden, former British foreign secretary, a letter by the Polish general staff, a report by the Polish commercial attaché in London on a chat with Ambassador Kennedy.

All the documents were accompanied by photographic reproductions of the alleged originals.

One of the papers was labelled a confidential report by Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador in Washington, dated Nov. 21, 1938.

It said Bullitt hoped that during the ensuing two years Germany would engage in conflict with Russia, thereby giving the western powers an opportunity to get ready.

"Bullitt's Reports" "Bullitt's reports to President Roosevelt and the state department are always studied with attention," the alleged report to Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, read.

"Bullitt spoke with the greatest vehemence and strong hatred of Germany and Chancellor Hitler," this alleged report said. "He opined that only strength applied at the close of war could in the future put an end to Germany's mad expansion. To my question how he viewed this coming war, he replied that the United States, France and Britain must arm up tremendously in order to defy German power."

"To my question whether the United States would participate in such a war he (Bullitt) replied: 'Undoubtedly, yes, but only after England and France bestirred themselves first.' The attitude in the United States, he said, was so adverse to nazism and Hitlerism that even today there is a psychosis among Americans similar to that before America's declaration of war on Germany in 1917."

President Roosevelt's alleged attitude and opinions figure for the first time in what was represented as a report by Potocki dated Washington, Jan. 12, 1939. After asserting that hatred in the United States against all forms of fascism is growing and is being incited by Jewish propaganda, the report said, controls the radio, press, films and magazines nearly 100 per cent, the alleged Potocki report continued.

Roosevelt Named "President Roosevelt was first to give expression to this hatred for fascism. He thereby pursued a twofold object: First, he wanted to distract the attention of the American public from difficult and complicated domestic problems, especially those connected with capital and labor. "Second, by conjuring up a war psychosis and conjuring up danger in Europe, he wanted to persuade the American people to accept America's enormous preparedness program, a program which goes beyond defense needs. . . . Roosevelt soon succeeded. . . . in creating interest in his foreign policy. The way chosen was quite simple: on the one hand the danger of war hanging over the world on account of Chancellor Hitler had to be set in a scene clearly."

"On the other hand a ghost had to be invented which would jabber about an attack by totalitarian states on the United States."

"The Munich pact came in very handy for Roosevelt in that connection. He represented it as capitulation by France and England to pugnacious German militarism."

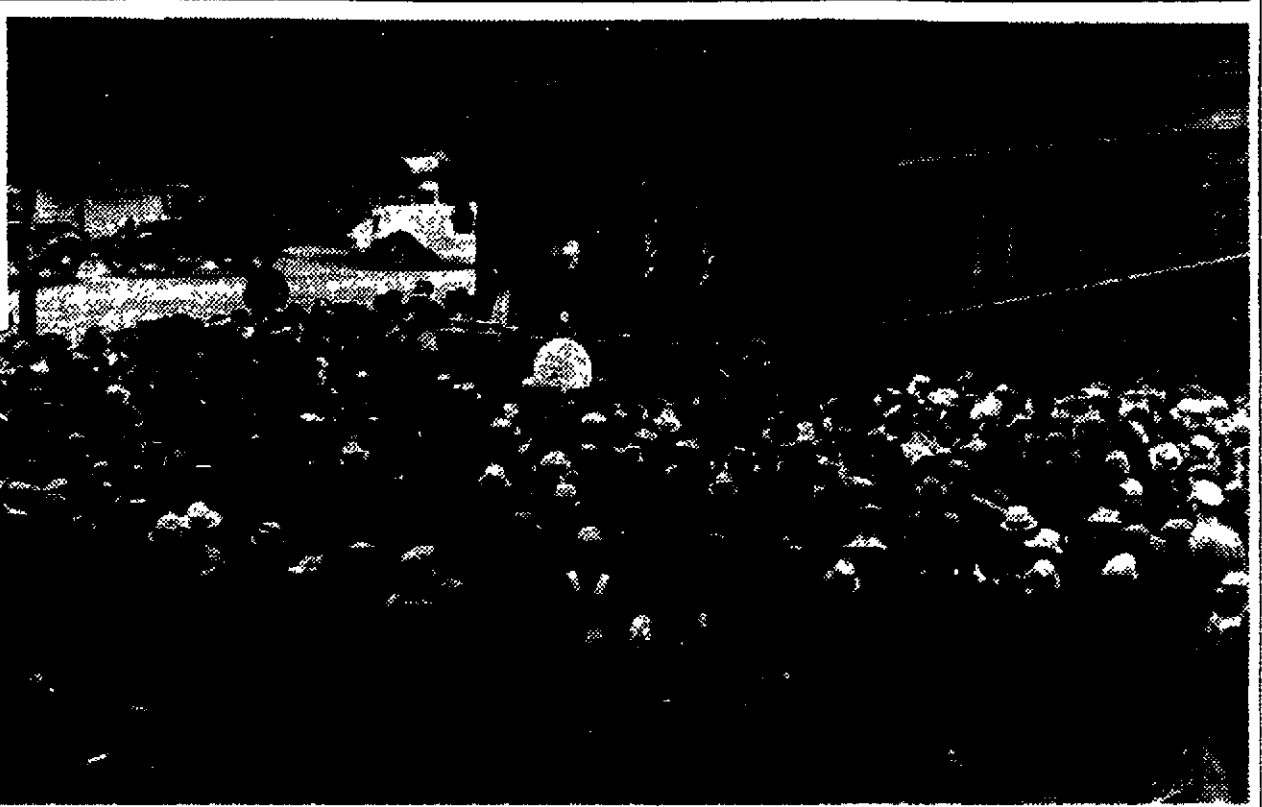

Potocki then expressed the opinion that the Jews were using President Roosevelt to bring about a world war.

All chiefs of bureau of American news associations and newspapers accredited to Berlin were summoned to the foreign office at 6 p. m. (11 a. m., C.S.T.) ahead of correspondents of other nationalities to receive the documents.

The collection was supplemented with what were said to be photographic reproductions of the originals.

The correspondents were told that no elucidations were necessary—they should read for themselves.

DEWEY GETS BIG WELCOME AT STOP IN APPLETON

Part of the crowd of about 2,000 persons is shown above greeting Thomas E. Dewey, Republican aspirant for the presidential nomination, as his train made a 4-minute stop in Appleton about 11 o'clock this morning. Dewey made a short train platform speech during the stop, one of several in the valley during his trip from Green Bay to Milwaukee. Dewey is making a 2-day tour of Wisconsin urging support of Dewey-pledged delegate candidates at the election next Tuesday. He made brief train platform appearances at Kaukauna and Neenah-Menasha this morning and this afternoon was appearing at a reception at Oshkosh. Dewey may be seen on the back platform of the train. 2,000 at Appleton Depot to Greet Dewey, GOP Presidential Candidate

About 2,000 persons greeted Thomas E. Dewey, Republican aspirant for the presidential nomination, when his special train stopped at the Chicago and North Western depot about 11 o'clock this morning.

His stop here was one of 22 being made in Wisconsin on a 2-day tour to urge support for Dewey-pledged delegates at the election next Tuesday.

"The people this year will decide on a few things," he said, "and you people of Wisconsin have an opportunity, in having the first contested primary in the nation, to show that we are turning around to go forward again."

He said the present administration would have the people believe the country is through and that they can live on what they have.

"I just plain don't believe it," he declared. "I don't believe that an administration sitting in Washington can run the private affairs of 120,000,000 people."

Want Fair Break "All we ask is a fair break and an even chance. We want an honest administration on one that we can respect."

Dewey said that the people this year have a chance to vote in an administration that will keep the nation out of war. He said they don't have to rely on the promise of an administration that hasn't kept the promises it already has made.

Referring to his job as district attorney in New York, Dewey said that a few years ago he believed he was at a big job in eliminating the threat of organized crime in New York City.

"Now we are facing a different type of problem, that of putting out an administration that believes the country has stopped going forward."

He introduced Oscar Schmiede and A. C. Wittkopf, Eighth district Dewey-pledged candidates, and urged that they be supported along with the Dewey-pledged state delegates at large at the election Tuesday.

He also introduced Mrs. Dewey who is accompanying him on the 2-day Wisconsin tour.

Dewey's trip to the Fox river valley started this morning at Green Bay where he spoke at a breakfast. Train platform appearances were made at De Pere and Kaukauna where he shook hands with a number of the townspeople. At Kaukauna Mayor Lewis Nelson presented him with a large jar of cheese made at Kaukauna.

Smiling, the Republican presidential candidate, said: "This is worth a trip all the way to Wisconsin."

Leaving Appleton, his train made a stop at the Neenah-Menasha depot and then proceeded to Oshkosh for a 5-hour stop and reception. He was scheduled to speak in Milwaukee tonight. Tomorrow he will proceed to Chicago on his way back to New York where he is expected to arrive Monday.

At Neenah-Menasha a large crowd waded through the mud around the depot to get a glimpse of the presidential aspirant. In a short talk, he asked support for Dewey-pledged delegates.

Board Completes Job of Revising Rules, Procedures

Defers Action Until May On Request for $2,500 For Seymour Fair

The county board yesterday afternoon completed the revision of rules for committees and the board deferred action until May on the request of the Seymour Fair and Driving park association for $2,500 for the erection of a new fair building.

The delay on the requested appropriation was made to enable the association to perfect its application for a WPA grant. It is planned to build an exhibition building at the fair grounds and to give a section of it over to the use of 4-H clubs, home demonstration clubs and Future Farmers of America.

Sharp remarks exchanged by Supervisor Louis Bonini, chairman of the purchasing committee, and Supervisor Mike Jacobs, Appleton, chairman of the building and grounds committee, enlivened the discussion on rules as Bonini made an unsuccessful attempt to have the jurisdiction of the courthouse janitors taken from Jacobs' committee and given to the purchasing committee.

The agricultural and fire prevention committees were combined and the new committee will consist of five members. The sheriff and radio committees also were combined and will consist of five members.

In revising the rules of the purchasing committee considerable discussion arose over the filling of vacancies.

Russia Neutral, Molotoff Says

Declares Soviet Policy Includes 'Safeguarding Of Our Land'

Moscow —(P)— Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotoff declared tonight before Soviet Russia's parliament that "our position is neutral in the war" and "the safeguarding of our land."

Molotoff announced this policy at the end of a review of foreign affairs in which he charged that "the hopes of the British and French rulers to use the Soviet Union in war against Germany have been frustrated."

He asserted that the conflict with Finland "was a welcome opportunity for a number of imperialist states to embark on war against the Soviet Union" and mentioned the United States and Italy among other imperialist countries "besides the allies who sent 'military aid' to Finland."

"The policy pursued by the Soviet Union," he said, "is obviously not palatable to the British and French, whose nerves are not in good order."

Molotoff asserted that "during the past five months there have been many instances of Franco-British hostility toward the Soviet Union."

Find Two Rivers Man Lost Life by Drowning

Two Rivers—Walter Jindra, 44, operator and plumber at the municipal filtration plant whose body was found in a filter tank Wednesday night, came to his death by drowning, a coroner's jury decided last night.

Two men and a woman, who had been held as material witnesses were released following the verdict. Jindra's body was found by a night watchman more than three hours after the plant ordinarily closed for the night.

About 30 Persons Reported Killed as Tornado Strikes Small Louisiana Community

Napoleonville, La.—(P)—The Louisiana Light and Power company received reports today that a tornado had struck the small settlement of Pierre Part, 20 miles distant, and killed about 30 persons.

A. J. Howard, company official, said he received advice that the tornado struck about 11 a. m. and demolished the church and many homes in the village, inhabited by fishermen and trappers. The reports said that "at least 30 persons were killed," and some hurt. Doctors and nurses sped to the village from here and from Donaldsonville, and ambulances were sent from neighboring towns. The population of Pierre Part is about 600. Sheriff Lezin H. Humel of Assumption parish reported he had been informed that between 30 and 40 were killed. The sheriff said all his deputies and "practically all the residents of Napoleonville" had rushed to the community's aid. The little settlement of Pierre Part in a remote back section of Assumption parish, is inhabited by fishermen, shrimpers and oystermen. They live in a long line of unpainted cabins. The town looks out on the broad expanse of Lake Verret, and is reached only by secondary roads or boats. Little wharves or sagging, unpainted boards, project out into the waters in front of the cabins, providing mooring places for the fishing and work jiggers, while fishermen dry in the sun.

Contempt Action Given House O. K.

Single 'No' Heard When Resolution Comes Up For Vote

Washington —(P)— The house directed today that James H. Dolson, Pittsburgh Communist leader, be cited for contempt of the house for refusal to answer questions of the Dies committee.

One of the questions Dolson declined to answer at a committee hearing Monday regarded the identity of the person responsible for the issuance of a Communist party card bearing the name "Franklin D. Roosevelt."

A card inscribed with that name was found in Dolson's possession when a subpoena was served on him by a committee investigator. The resolution citing Dolson for contempt was approved by a loud chorus of "ayes." A single "No" was heard.

The resolution said that in view of the "willful and deliberate refusal" of Dolson to answer specified questions, the committee had been deprived of important information.

It asked that the speaker of the house refer the matter to the federal district attorney here so that Dolson "may be proceeded against" according to law.

Chairman Dies (D-Texas) of the committee investigating un-American activities ordered a subpoena issued today for Dr. Albert E. Blumberg of Baltimore, secretary of the Communist party of Maryland and the District of Columbia, when Blumberg failed to appear at a hearing.

3 Persons Burned to Death in Indiana Fire

Greencastle, Ind.—(P)— Three elderly persons were burned to death in a fire that destroyed a farm home 15 miles south of here early today.

The dead were Jesse Meek and his two sisters, Mrs. Florence McDowell and Miss Elizabeth Meek. They were between 65 and 70 years of age.

Governor Heil Abandons Plan for Reorganization Of Wisconsin Road Setup

Madison —(P)— Governor Heil announced today that plans for elimination of three highway department divisions offices would be abandoned and the present setup of nine divisions would be retained.

The governor announced his decision after several days of conferences with William E. O'Brien, chairman of the highway commission and protesting delegations from Superior, Eau Claire and Wisconsin Rapids, three of the cities affected by the proposed reorganization. The chief executive said he believed personnel in the highway department previously was about 20 per cent too high, but that the commission had already made a 30 per cent reduction which provided economies he regarded as necessary. Under a reorganization plan the highway commission had adopted last week, upon recommendation of the executive office and the state research division, offices at Eau Claire and Wisconsin Rapids were to be abandoned. The Superior office was to be relocated at Ladysmith and Lancaster was to be maintained only as a "contact" branch. The governor ordered a "re-survey" Wednesday after receiving protests from the communities involved. Emphasizing that final responsibility on all road matters would be

Britain Turns 2 Russian Vessels Over to French

Declares 'Transfer Was Made For Administrative Reasons'

London —(P)— Great Britain apparently tried today to rid herself of a war-born controversy with Soviet Russia by announcing she was turning over to French authorities in the Far East two Russian freighters suspected of carrying contraband for Germany.

"For administrative reasons," a London announcement said, "it has been found convenient to transfer the ships from the custody of one ally to that of the other."

France's diplomatic relations with Russia were rendered more difficult only this week when the French government asked that Russian Ambassador Jakob Surits be recalled as "persona non grata."

The Russian freighters Selenga and Vladimir Mayakovsky, the latter en route from the United States to Vladivostok, were intercepted in Far Eastern waters by the British navy and taken to Hongkong where, the London announcement said, "examination for the purpose of contraband control has not yet been completed." Russia has been seeking their release.

Red Parliament Meets Russia's parliament opened its third session in seven months with these high-spots on the program outlined for it: 1. A report on foreign affairs to day by Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotoff. 2. Creation of a "Karelian-Finnish union republic" out of territory gained from Finland and ratified.

Grand Jury Ends Quiz in Chicago

Returns Blanket Indictment Charging 13 Persons With Conspiracy

Chicago —(P)— The federal grand jury investigating the incomes of alleged "big time" gamblers today concluded its work by returning an indictment, charging blanket conspiracy, against William R. Johnson and 12 others, including William R. Skidmore and a 27-year-old woman.

The indictment charged that the payment of $1,887,664.31 in income taxes had been evaded by Johnson from 1936 to 1939 inclusive. The indictment was returned before Judge Charles E. Woodward.

Nine of the persons named in the blanket conspiracy indictment had been indicted previously by the same grand jury. The blanket indictment, charged Johnson of a total evasion of $1,887,664.31 in taxes, and charged the names of six aiding and abetting him of perjury.

The names of four new figures were brought into the ramified case: Ed Wait, described as Johnson's right-hand man and manager of the Villa Moderne and the Bon Air casino, Lake county night spot; Orrie Alexander, a brother-in-law of Skidmore and chief bookkeeper at Skidmore's Chicago junkyard; Reginald E. Mackey of suburban Elmhurst, manager of a casino; and Bernice Downey, a partner in the operation of a Chicago currency exchange. Bond was fixed for each at $10,000.

Missing Child Found At Home of Her Uncle

Madison —(P)— The streets of suburban West Allis resounded with the wail of police sirens as officers spent eight hours yesterday and last night looking for Donna Harvey, 8, who disappeared after classes were dismissed at Longfellow school.

At midnight the search led to the home of her uncle, Carl Lund, Jr., in Milwaukee. Yes, she was there, sound asleep.

One Killed in Crash And Another Succumbs Later

ICY HILL BLAMED

Two Other Companions Are in Hospital With Broken Bones

Four Dale youths, from 14 to 19 years of age, started out for New London last night. Today, two of them are dead, after the car skidded on an icy hill on County Trunk T about 24 miles west of Hortonville, slid broadside down the highway and struck a tree. Roy Krummenacher, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Krummenacher, route 1, Dale, was killed instantly in the crash. His neck was broken. James Lautenschlaeger, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Lautenschlaeger, Dale, died at 11 o'clock this morning in a New London hospital. The driver of the car, he suffered fractures to his skull, left hip, one arm and his face was badly smashed. Patrick Bradley, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bradley, Dale, and Robert Bohren, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bohren, Sr., route 1, Dale, are in a New London hospital. Bradley has a broken arm and Bohren a broken leg. Captain Charles Steidl of the Outagamie county highway police said the accident happened about 7:30. The car bearing the four boys was coming down a hill when the driver lost control. It crashed broadside into a tree near the Joseph Gutter farm. It was reported today that the four youths started out for a boy scout meeting at Medina, but that the meeting was postponed and they had decided to attend a track practice at New London High school. Lautenschlaeger, the youth who died this morning, was a sophomore at New London, as were Bradley and Bohren. Krummenacher attended a school near Dale. Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, county coroner, and Sheriff John Lappen drew a coroner's jury this morning. The jury viewed the body of Krummenacher. Members are Myron Steffen, Allen Kaufman, William Schuelke, Edgar Rock, Chester Nelson, and Len Dorschner. All are from Dale. No date for the inquest has been set. The Krummenacher youth is survived by his parents and one sister, Ruth, 12. Mr. Krummenacher is a cheesemaker. The Lautenschlaeger youth is survived by his parents and one brother, Wayne, about eight.

Sale of Warplanes To Allies Brings Talk of U. S. Cuts

Washington —(P)— Release of the most advanced type of American warplanes to the allies gave congressmen a talking point today in advocating a reduction in the big aircraft defense program. The fact that both army and navy espoused the decision to give France and Britain the right-of-way in aviation purchases was seized upon by some lawmakers as proof that necessity no longer existed for speedy construction of a huge American air armada. Senator Clark (D-Mo) said he thought the two fighting services had "stated themselves clear out of court" on the subject of large immediate expenditures. Barring a change of policy, he added, he and others would demand appropriation reductions to cover only the number of planes which experts estimate would be delivered to the army and navy by July 1, 1941. The army's original $300,000,000 program was to expand the air corps to 5,500 planes by that date, but General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, said yesterday the objective might be reduced to 3,500 because allied buying would obviate the immediate need for accumulating a reserve. He looked for a possible saving of $27,000,000 for the next year.

Denies Failure to Stop After Injury

Wausau —(P)— Sylvester Lepak, 23, of Hatley, pleaded innocent in county court yesterday on a charge of failure to stop after an injury. Judge Frank P. Rogers set Lepak's preliminary hearing for April 11. A coroner's jury which investigated the death of Paul Fust, 56, of the town of Easton, previously had made a finding that Lepak drove the automobile which struck Fust and that he was negligent. Fust was killed March 25. Lepak walked into the sheriff's office a short time later and, District Attorney Elmer E. Hohnmann announced, said "I'm the man you're looking for." The prosecutor said Lepak asserted that he had not seen anyone on the road and that although he was aware he had struck something, did not know until later that a man had been killed.

Lack of Activity In War Slows Up Third-Term Drive

New Dealers Wondering If Roosevelt Will Enter Race

BY W. B. RAGSDALE
Washington — Failure of the European war to flare into an early spring burst of activity has had a depressing effect on the third-term drive.

In spite of the pleading of Maine delegates for President Roosevelt and a show of enthusiasm in other sections of the country, New Dealers are beginning to wonder whether Mr. Roosevelt will get into the race.

Apparently Postmaster General Farley has not been the only official convinced that the president will run only if the foreign situation is in a critical stage at the time conventions are held. Not since 1916 have international affairs played so strong a part in shaping the outlines of the American political picture.

Finnish Peace Factor
The hopes of some third-term promoters have been dashed when the Finnish peace was signed. They ebbed still farther when the war along the Maginot-Siegfried line maintained its stalemate after winter had departed.

Perhaps this maintenance of the status quo in the European war had much to do with pushing Farley further into the race. He has not said he would oppose Mr. Roosevelt for a third term. But there are certain conditions that probably would have to exist to compel his support. He feels that the party has more than one man capable of national leadership.

Yet in a crisis, few doubt that Farley would support the president for the third term. And even strong New Dealers are beginning to think that only a crisis will push Mr. Roosevelt into taking the nomination against the opposition that appears certain.

Eland Troop Added to Valley Council Roster

Eland Troop 15 of Eland, sponsored by a group of citizens, is the newest boy scout troop to be registered in the valley council.

C. B. Brown is committee chairman. John Rettig is scoutmaster, with Jay Brown and Robert L. Smith assisting. Other committee members are Frank Kobasky, Clyde Brunner, Alf Saira, Phil Goulet, Sr., George Lanzner, and Lyle Rice.

Head of Ship Lines Dies of Heart Attack

San Rafael, Calif. — (P) — Joseph Sheehan, 50, president of the American President Steamship lines and former executive director of the United States maritime commission, died of a heart attack at his San Rafael home last night.

He became ill two days ago, but his condition had not been considered serious.

cencies on the committee. A move to have the vacancies filled by appointment was defeated. Supervisor Bonini said that when he became a member of the committee, he was told that he would continue to serve two additional years, provided he was reelected. Records were produced, however, which showed that when the committee was created last fall Bonini was given a 1-year term. Three board members were placed on the committee with terms of one, two and three years with the provision that subsequent members would serve a full three years, the records showed.

Approve Rules
Rules were approved governing the duties of the relief, general accounts, mediation board, insurance, rules, legislative, health, ordinance, committee on committees, per diem and mileage, resolutions, farm-to-market, equalization, sanatorium, asylum, airport, illegal tax, insane accounts and educational committees.

A pension advisory committee was set up to include three board members and the county judge, as an ex-officio member. The advisory committee will meet at regular intervals and adopt rules and regulations and formulate policies and procedures designed to assist in improving the administration of the pension law in the county. It also will keep the county board informed as to the administration of the pension program in the county.

Among other rules approved was one providing that any purchases to be made by any committee except the highway and purchasing committees, be presented first to the executive committee for approval and proper requisition to the purchasing committee.

WELLES VISITS PRESIDENT

Less than an hour after returning to Washington from his fact-finding tour of Europe, Sumner Welles (right), undersecretary of state, called at the White House to report personally to President Roosevelt on what he learned in Rome, Berlin, Paris and London. Welles was accompanied to the executive mansion by his chief, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, with whom he is shown at the front door.

Most Senators Whose Terms Will Expire Seek Reelection

Washington — (P) — The developing political campaign is demonstrating that members are reluctant to give up their cards in the "most exclusive club in the world" — The United States senate.

The 35 senators whose terms expire next winter include some longtime members and some comparative youngsters, but, with the exception of three, all have indicated they would run again.

Senators Donahay (D-Ohio) and Hale (R-Maine) have announced they would retire, while Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash.) has been noncommittal.

The first tests for sitting senators will come in the Illinois and Nebraska primaries April 9. In Illinois, Senator Slattery is opposed for Democratic re-nomination by Benjamin Adamowski, a state legislator.

In Nebraska, Senator Burke is opposed for Democratic re-nomination by Governor Roy L. Cochran.

Pennsylvanians Split
Pennsylvania Democrats are split in Senator Guffey's re-nomination race against Walter A. Jones, chairman of the state turnpike commission.

In Maryland Senator Radcliffe already is engaged in a stumping contest with Howard Bruce, Democratic national committeeman seeking the senatorial nomination. In West Virginia, Senators Holt and Neely have patched up their longstanding quarrel, and Neely is expected to support Holt for re-nomination against Guy H. Kump, a former governor.

Senator Truman (D-Mo.) already has opposition for re-nomination from Governor Lloyd C. Stark. Maurice M. Milligan, who prosecuted the Pendergast Democratic organization in Kansas City, has resigned as federal attorney, apparently to seek Truman's seat.

Senator Austin (R-Vt.), who is up for reelection, contended today that the Republicans had a chance to win nine places now held by these Democratic senators:

Donahay, Guffey, Holt, Maloney of Connecticut, Mead of New York, Minton of Indiana, O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Schwellenbach, and Truman.

School Aids are Sent to Counties

Outagamie's Allotment From State Funds Totals $82,539

Madison — (P) — The secretary of state's office this week mailed checks totalling $82,539.29 in payment of the annual statutory elementary school aids.

The money was sent to counties which in turn distribute it to school districts.

Milwaukee county received the largest share, $603,116.34; Dane was second with $185,264.74; and Marathon third with $129,274.38.

Although $5,315,000 was available, the state department of public instruction withheld temporarily $65,349.71 for orphan's tuition, aid to county homes which have schools, and emergency appropriations. These aids will be paid at intervals throughout the year.

Allotments included: Brown $79,523.45; Calumet $23,359.46; Door $33,271.70; Fond du Lac $85,378.53; Forest $48,892.20; Manitowoc $61,958.34; Outagamie $82,539.29; Shawano $70,154.62; Sheboygan $84,996.26; Waupaca $73,715.10; Winnebago $91,209.34.

Cheese Monopoly Alleged; 6 Firms Face U. S. Action

Commission Charges Price Control for Foreign Types

Washington — (P) — The federal trade commission has begun an action against an alleged combination to control the prices of foreign types of cheese produced principally in a four-county area in Wisconsin.

The commission made public a complaint against six corporations, representing some of the nations largest dairy interests. They are National Dairy Product Corporation, Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation, Badger-Brohead Cheese company, the Borden company, J. S. Hoffman and company, and Triangle Cheese company.

National Dairy owns Kraft-Phenix, which owns Badger-Brohead, J. S. Hoffman and Company owns Triangle Cheese.

The respondents were given 20 days in which to answer the complaint, but the time may be extended on request.

The F. T. C. alleges that these six corporations fixed prices to be paid for the four foreign types of cheese — Swiss, brick, limburger and Munster — produced in the area around Monroe, Wis.

Monthly Meetings
It alleged that since Oct. 27, 1938, representatives of the companies had held monthly meetings with representatives of the cheese factories at which agreements for prices and movement of cheese into warehouses were made.

The commission alleged also that the respondents were able through such agreements to control the prices at which those types of cheese were sold over the country, to determine, at least in part, the prices at which other dairy products were sold, to monopolize the entire supply of foreign types of cheese and to "unreasonably lessen, eliminate, restrict, stifle, hinder and suppress competition" in the purchase of foreign types of cheese from factories in the Monroe area.

Reviewing the history of the Monroe area industry, the F. T. C. said that Wisconsin produced about two-thirds of all the Swiss cheese made in the United States and that 90 per cent of the state's production was concentrated in four southern counties, Green, LaFayette, Dane and Iowa.

First Merger in 1911
The first merger of any consequence among dealers in the Monroe area took place in 1911, when seven independent cheese dealers organized the Badger Cheese company, the F. T. C. said. It added, however, that there was active competition against Kraft-Phenix until 1921 but that in the last 15 years there had been "a gradual consolidation of these cheese dealers and a centralized control in the sale of the output of the various factories."

The F. T. C. said that the six respondents purchased the annual output of about 200 of the 250 cheese factories in the Monroe area, or approximately 75 per cent of Wisconsin's total foreign type cheese production.

Earlier Complaints
A federal trade commission complaint against Kraft-Phenix in connection with alleged price control of cheese was dismissed in 1937. National Dairy Products and the Borden company were named among the respondents in a complaint six years ago against the international association of ice cream manufacturers. This complaint was dismissed last year.

After the respondents in the present case have answered the complaint, a hearing before a commission examiner will be ordered. This will be followed by an examiner's report, then by the commission's brief, the respondents' brief and finally by oral argument.

After the argument, the commission will issue an order either dismissing the complaint or calling upon the respondents to "cease and desist" from the alleged unlawful practices. A cease and desist order must be followed by a report of compliance from the respondents. A violation of such an order would be referred to the justice department for prosecution.

BABY SLAIN

District Attorney Leon Schwartz said at Wilkes Barre, Pa., that two-year-old Frank Orban, Jr., (above) died from a pint of washing solution which his mother, Mary, 34, forced down his throat because male children are "no good." A sanity commission examined the mother, whom Schwartz described as "sort of a hex doctor."

Dewey Declares New Deal Exacted Tribute From WPA

Winds Up Illinois Tour With Speech Before 20,000 at Chicago

Chicago — (P) — Thomas E. Dewey climaxed a 1-day tour of Illinois with a speech at the Chicago stadium last night, Edward F. Moore, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, estimated the crowd at 20,000.

Dewey accused the New Deal of pursuing a "policy of corruption of the ballot" by using the WPA for political activities. He also took occasion to denounce the Chicago Democratic organization headed by Mayor Edward J. Kelly and National Committeeman P. A. Nash.

"Your New Deal Kelly-Nash machine," he said, "is running a close race with our own many tiger down in Tammany hall to see which is the lowest form of political life."

"Unpunish Crime"
Dewey called the New Deal's record of WPA political activity "a calendar of unpunished crime—broken covenants, disloyalty to the constitution, abuse of power, intimidation, coercion, extortion and larceny—all committed against the underprivileged and helpless unemployed."

Dewey listed Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and North Carolina among states in which he charged that the WPA had been prostituted for political ends. He accused the New Deal of adding 300,000 men to WPA payrolls for political purposes before the 1936 general election.

Allied War Moves Intended To Assure World of Active Efforts to Defeat Germany

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York — (P) — The all-round tightening up of the vast Anglo-French war machine, in a surge of activity affecting operations extending across half the globe, is calculated to give an answer to the demand in England and France for greater initiative in the conduct of the conflict.

As a matter of fact it is intended to do even more than that. For not only is it meant to inspire confidence at home but it is a rather impressive display of solidarity, determination and confidence for the benefit of the world at large.

In this the United States surely hasn't been forgotten, since Britain lately has been badly worried for fear Americans were beginning to look askance at the manner in which allied operations were being conducted.

The allied seal, guaranteeing delivery of goods, was affixed at yesterday's meeting of the Anglo-French supreme war council in London. There they pledged themselves to make a separate peace. And they agreed "to maintain after the conclusion of peace, community of action in all spheres."

Premiers Present
Among the greater personalities attending that council was Paul Reynaud, new French premier. He owes his post to the downfall of Premier Daladier, whose government failed to satisfy parliament in the conduct of the war. Also present was Britain's man with the umbrella, Prime Minister Chamberlain wearing a few fresh scars of battle but still the dominant figure among allied statesmen—and quite aware of the fact.

The two premiers would seem to be entitled to expect a favorable reaction from their people as a result of the new moves. True, there is little indication thus far of "action" in the sense of major military offensives, but there certainly has been "initiative" over a wide field of diplomatic and military endeavor.

Actually on analysis the latest allied campaigns, thrown on relief and off relief to meet the election needs of a power-hungry administration," Dewey said. "Under the threat of loss of desperately needed aid, tribute was exacted. That tribute was paid in food out of the mouths of hungry men, women and children."

"Every responsible person believes in the obligation of government to provide relief for the needy," Dewey asserted, adding that "every decent citizen insists that relief must be free of politics."

Says 'Common Sense' Supports Vandenberg
Milwaukee — (P) — William C. Bishop, chairman of the Michigan Federation of Young Republicans, said last night that his group backed Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan as a "common sense" candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

"We know that we have a sick nation upon our hands, and we want an untired physician to experiment upon Uncle Sam," Bishop said.

He is suffering now from a galaxy of pills, potions and quack nostrums which have given him the most colossal case of acute economic indigestion in history. For his condition, we Young Republicans recommend our leading practitioner of curative statecraft—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg."

CONFUCIUS SAY
Chicago — (P) — Assistant Prosecutor Samuel Rosenberg couldn't resist the temptation when Y. C. Do, Chinese ambassador, pleaded guilty yesterday to the theft of four cartons of cigarettes.

"Confucius say that he who steals what isn't his'n, either pays or goes to prison."

Do smiled feebly as they led him away to serve a year in jail.

Appleton Will be Host to Conclave For Bandmasters

High School Band to Make First Appearance in New Uniforms

Appleton will be host to the annual Wisconsin Bandmasters convention Saturday and Sunday, April 13 and 14. Highlights of the conclave will be the banquet Saturday evening to which the public will be invited and the concert Sunday evening in the Appleton High school auditorium when over 20 directors will appear on the program each conducting a different selection.

The Sunday concert will mark the first appearance of Appleton High school's band members in their new uniforms. The coats of the group are of royal blue, single-breasted style with four buttons. There are three stripes of gold braid on the sleeves, gold citation cord on the left shoulder and a skeletonized "A" on the right sleeve. The trousers are the same color as the coat, with gold and blue braid stripes on the side seams.

Some of the outstanding numbers which Appleton's band will present under the direction of E. C. Moore will be "Andante Cantabile" by Tschalkowsky; the overture to "The Barber of Seville" by Rossini; a cornet solo by Robert Sager, "Debutante" by Clarke; a novelty number "Little Brown Jug Goes to Town" featuring the piccolo played by William Cherkasky; and "Our Heroes" a march composed by Joseph Gigante, Milwaukee bandmaster, and Joseph Briegheim.

Banquet Speakers

Headline speakers at the banquet Saturday will be Carl Christensen, who will discuss "Musical Impressions of a Recent Trip to Scandinavia," and Gerald R. Prescott, who will speak on "The Contributions of College Bands to Professional Music."

Professor Christensen, the only South Dakota member of the American Bandmasters' association, is head of the music department at South Dakota State college, Brookings, and director of the famous State college military band. He is a composer and arranger of recognition and plays the violin and cornet. Last summer Professor Christensen, a native of Denmark, made a musical pilgrimage to the Scandinavian countries. Prescott, the only Minnesota member of the group, is director of the bands of the University of Minnesota. He is the author of the well-known "Prescott System" and last summer was director of the all-state band at the summer music clinic at the University of Wisconsin.

Judge McCarthy Will Consider Motion in Sydney Champeau Case

A motion to quash information in the case of Sydney Champeau, Appleton, who has been granted a new trial on a charge of taking and retaining a minor following his marriage to a 17-year-old girl last September, will be heard April 6 by Acting Municipal Judge Joseph R. McCarthy.

Judge McCarthy was named to sit in the case after an affidavit of probable cause was filed against Municipal Judge Thomas H. Ryan. Judge Ryan sentenced Champeau to 3 to 5 years at the state reformatory on the charge following his marriage to the minor after a man posed as the girl's father and signed a consent certificate for the marriage.

Champeau appealed from a denial by Judge Ryan of his motion for leave to change his plea of guilty, and an alternative motion for a writ of error. Following the ruling by the supreme court for a new trial, Champeau was removed from the state reformatory to the county jail.

Veterinary Society Official, Professor Speakers at Meeting

Thirty members of the Northeastern Wisconsin Veterinary Medical society held a business meeting at the Conway hotel Wednesday afternoon and a banquet in the evening.

Principal speakers were E. B. Ingmand, Chicago, executive secretary of the American Veterinary Medical society, and Dr. B. A. Bench, professor of veterinary science at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. L. A. Miller, Sherwood, is president of the northeastern society. Dr. William Madison, Appleton, is secretary, and Dr. T. L. Khapstein, Greenville, is treasurer.

Spinach Will be Canned at Plant

Fuhremann Company to Improve Building, Add Machinery

The Fuhremann Canning company, Appleton Junction, will add spinach and mixed vegetables to its canning list next summer, according to John Fuhremann, president.

Workmen yesterday began construction of a mezzanine floor authorized by the city building inspector. The floor will be 31 feet wide and 62 feet long and will be built of steel and concrete. The improvement will cost about $1,200.

Fuhremann said today the beet canning equipment, now on the main floor, will be moved to the new floor and new machinery and equipment will be installed on the main floor to handle the new products. Fuhremann estimated cost of new machinery and equipment at $5,000.

The firm now cans beets, peas, mixed peas and carrots, carrots, lima beans and tomatoes. The addition of spinach and mixed vegetables will provide a longer period of employment for workers, Fuhremann said.

Urges Bike Owners to Register at Station

Sergeant Carl Radtke of the Appleton police department today urged bicyclists owners of the city to "hustle up" the registration of their vehicles.

The police department registers bicycles on Wednesday afternoons from 4 o'clock to 6 o'clock. Radtke said that bike owners can get information on required equipment by calling the department.

Congress Facing Reciprocal Trade Agreement Debate

Washington Witnessing Fight on Old Issue of Tariff—Lawrence

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—An issue important in a realistic sense to the conduct of the American government in a world of disturbed world trade has arisen in the United States senate.

In theory, the issue is whether the congress shall delegate power to the executive agencies to make reciprocity agreements with foreign governments, but actually the issue is whether the United States government under the system of protracted delays in treaty making shall be prevented from exercising its authority to make trade agreements with foreign nations which give America trade benefits.

Under the constitution treaty-making requires senate ratification by a two-thirds vote, but tariff-making requires only a majority of both houses of congress. Those in the senate who want to limit the reciprocity agreements have gotten behind a proposal to require senate ratification of every trade agreement whereas those who favor the continuance of the present method of making reciprocity agreements contend that the power be exercised by the executive agencies along lines prescribed by congress.

The supreme court of the United States has already upheld the delegation of power to executive agencies including the tariff-making process. But the court has insisted that standards must be set forth and limits outlined so there can be no usurpation of power. If congress wishes to delegate its tariff-making power to an executive agency or group of agencies it can constitutionally do so. It has been delegated in that manner in the past by Republican congresses and tariffs have been proclaimed as a consequence by executive agencies of Republican administrations.

Foreign Conditions
Because a tariff is necessarily a matter of foreign intercourse, it is impossible for congress to pass new tariff laws without taking into account conditions in foreign countries and the willingness of foreign governments to make trade concessions dependent on American action. So while tariff-making is a domestic matter, it is also a problem of external relations, and there is no constitutional obstacle to the carrying out by an executive agency of a power or instruction granted or stipulated by congress with reference to a foreign government.

The truth is that virtually all the major governments of the world can act overnight and the executive in parliamentary governments is already a part of the legislative body, so the proposal of the one is customarily the act of the other. But in America if every relationship with a foreign government that is reduced to writing has to be called a treaty and needs senate ratification, then the United States can readily be taken advantage of by foreign powers. Prolonged delays in treaty-making cannot be avoided and tariff reprisals issued when congress is not in session cannot be handled except by delegated power.

Historically, the process of making executive agreements to carry out the will of congress or a policy already set forth by legislation has been recognized as coming within the broad constitutional powers of the executive branch in conducting the foreign relations of the government. The argument that the present reciprocity agreements are unconstitutional falls to the ground when one reads the decisions of the supreme court actually upholding the so-called "flexible tariff" provisions of previous tariff laws. It is quite possible to separate the tariff-making process from the making of agreements with foreign governments. The legislation could be written so as to delegate tariff making changes to an executive commission conditioned upon certain attitudes by foreign governments. But while this would literally avoid ratification of a treaty by the senate, it would not enable the executive commission to get a binding agree-

Leap Year Party Is Held at Lions Meet At Weyauwega Hotel

Weyauwega—The Lions club meeting at Hotel Dobbins Monday evening, held a leap year party, with the wives and friends present. The women acted as officers and conducted the meeting. Mrs. E. E. Bratz was president; Mrs. A. H. Korten, first vice president; Mrs. R. F. Peterson, second vice president; Mrs. George H. Dobbins, tail waiter, and Arthur Kuriz, female impersonator. Miss Schmalz, secretary; Miss M. W. Farber, song leader; with Betty Bauer as accompanist. The program consisted of cornet solos by Philip Baxter and Jack Nienhaus and vocal trios by Philip Baxter, Arthur Kuriz and Russell Chish. Party-six attended.

The Young People's club from Berlin attended a banquet at Hotel Dobbins Tuesday. Covers were laid for 34 at a 6:30 dinner. Whist was played.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Oswald entertained at a christening party in honor of their daughter Marion Myia at their home Sunday.

Rebald Thomas was the name given to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Caley when he was baptized by the Rev. Russell Peterson at the Easter service in the Presbyterian church Sunday.

Twin girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. John Considine in Waukesha Tuesday. Miss Considine formerly was Miss Nerda Harden of this city.

A son was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Price at their home. Mrs. Frances Gebke was surprised at her home Tuesday evening by a group of her classmates. The occasion was her birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keeney entertained Sunday a group of kindergarten pupils in honor of the birthday of their daughter Lois Jean.

Scout Troop 21 of Weyauwega attended the Twin Lake Rally in Waukegan Tuesday evening.

Christian Mothers Planning Series of Parties at Darboy

Darboy—The Christian Mothers society of Holy Angels parish will sponsor a series of five card parties at the Darboy hall, beginning Sunday evening.

Prizes will be awarded at each party with a special award to be given to the person with the highest total score of the series. The committee for the first card party of the series is headed by Mrs. Margaret J. Dietzen, with Mrs. Ida Luma, Mrs. Ray Duesen, Mrs. Herman Scheiber, Mrs. Anton Dietzen, Mrs. Steve Kouten-hof, Misses Margaret, Hildegard and Angela Wittmann, Mrs. George Wittmann, Mrs. Arthur Wittmann, Mrs. Joe Wyngaard, Mrs. Henry Ashauer, Mrs. Wenzel Zueger, Mrs. Jacob Koss, Mrs. Elizabeth Dietzen, Mrs. Joseph Wittmann, Miss Eunice Emmers, Mrs. Mary Hopfensperger, Mrs. Martin Van Roy, and Mrs. Elmer Horn. Adolph Otto was surprised by relatives at his home Tuesday evening, the occasion being his birthday anniversary. Cards were played and lunch and refreshments were served. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jansen and daughters, Mrs. Gordon Van De Hey and son Junior, Mr. and Mrs. John Berg, Miss and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ashauer, Kaukauna, and Mrs. Mary Beighuis, Eustis, Fla.

The delegation to the executive branch of power to change the tariff and to make agreements with foreign governments without ratification by the senate is in conformity with precedent and is really not the underlying trouble with the process at all. The objectors are in truth against certain tariff changes but decline to be put publicly in the position of defending high protective tariffs. The president and Secretary Hull would never have been able to build up the world trade that has so far recovered in the last few years if it had not been for the use of the reciprocal trade agreements as a means of reducing tariffs. The old way was to bring down tariff duties and get nothing from foreign governments in return. The present reciprocal trade agreement method merely adds the power to get trade benefits as duties are reduced and it is natural that the whole thing should have been attacked by high protectionists in both the Republican and Democratic parties.

What Washington is witnessing this week is a debate on an old, old issue—the tariff—but unhappily the implications of turning the clock back to log rolling rather than to moving forward with trade agreements are not yet widely recognized as related to a realistic change that has come in the manner that virtually all foreign governments deal with tariff matters nowadays.

April Primary Battles Bring First Big Test for Prominent Candidates for Presidential Bids

Nobody knows what will happen at the national party conventions in June and July, but after the smoke of the April primary battles has cleared away, it should be easier to guess. For some of the prominent candidates for the presidential nominations get their first real test this month—in one or more of the six primaries in which delegates to the national conventions will be chosen. This map shows the highlights of these primaries—shows also what happened in the first primary, New Hampshire's, last month.

Political dopesters will be interested especially in answers to these questions:
What kind of race will Roosevelt men run in Wisconsin, where Garner men hope to profit by the fact that the two rival FDR tickets have been entered? (The President has not sanctioned the entrance anywhere of slates of delegates pledged to him, neither has he forbidden it.) How will the President stack up against the Vice President in Illinois? (Says Mayor Kelley, FDR backer: "If Roosevelt gets a big vote in Illinois, he will be renominated, and, if not, he won't be.") What will the primaries show about the relative vote-getting ability of Dewey and Vandenberg, two of the leading candidates for the Republican nomination?

will be the date of the 4-H club picnic at Scandinavia.
In July there will be a 4-H club tour throughout the county, seeing what each club has accomplished. In August there will be demonstrations, judging teams, and style reviews.

The next big event will be the county fair at Weyauwega in which all 4-H clubs will participate. In September all books must be completed and in October there will be fall "round up" and Achievement day.

2 Cemetery Board Members Relected At Marion Meeting

Marion—The Greenleaf Cemetery association held its annual meeting, Tuesday afternoon, at the city hall. Two board members whose terms had expired, were reelected: Mrs. Otto Keller and Mrs. Julie Pockat.

The fire department was called to the Herman Braun home, Tuesday morning, when a chimney fire was getting beyond control. A large hole was burned in the roof.

The Schafkopf club met with Herman Braun Monday evening. High scores were held by Will Borchart, Henry Kussman and Frank Polzin.

Marion schools opened Wednesday morning after a week's vacation. The annual vocal contest will be held Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium. Thirteen girls and five boys will participate.

Of the girl soloists, four will compete in the alto group, five in the mezzo-soprano and four in the soprano group. There will be three duets and one girls' trio, and one male quartet. Judges will select the champion soloist and the first and second place winners, who will compete in the music tournament at Kaukauna, May 4.

Dr. R. H. Slater, who has practiced medicine in this city for the last two years, will leave here soon and will locate at Granton, Wis.

Will Zehm, who has been confined at the Shawano hospital for some time, returned Saturday to his home in this city.

Scout First Aid Team Will Go to Green Bay

Kimberly—The Kimberly Boy Scout first aid team of Troop 19 will go to Green Bay Saturday to take part in the sectional contest. The Kimberly team was the only group to win an "A" rating at the Valley Council finals at Kaukauna Monday evening.

If the team achieves an "A" rating at Green Bay, it will compete at the regional meet at Chicago next month. Thus far the Kimberly team has won the troop, district and council honors.

Holy Name court of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters will sponsor a guest card party at the Holy Name school at 7:30 Thursday evening, April 11. Each member of the society has been asked to bring her friends to make up a table at which she will furnish the prize.

Rules Deputy Clerk Can Hold Justice Job

Madison—The offices of deputy county clerk and justice of the peace are compatible, Attorney General John E. Martin today advised L. W. Bruennner, district attorney of Kaukauna county.

An incumbent of one office is eligible to hold the other under the constitution and statutes of the state, Martin wrote, because although the clerk is the disbursing officer of the county, he does not pass upon the claims of the justice.

Massachusetts Appears to Be on Republican Side of November Election Ledger

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion
Princeton, N. J.—Political observers who are charting the November election should put Massachusetts on the Republican side of the ledger at the present time, according to political studies conducted in the state by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Whether the Bay State will still be on the Republican side by next November may depend on the choice of Presidential candidates and upon unforeseen events of the next eight months. But the Institute's fact-finding surveys, conducted for a group of 108 newspapers of all shades of political belief, show that the state is clearly leaning to the G. O. P. today.

In its preview of 1940 political sentiment the Institute put the following question to a cross-section of Massachusetts voters: "Which party would you like to see win the Presidential election next year?"

The answers of those with a definite choice at this time are:

Favor Republicans 54%
Favor Democrats 46%

Massachusetts, with its great textile, electrical and leather industries, and with its large urban and labor groups, went Democratic in the Al Smith-Herbert Hoover election of 1928 and remained Democratic in 1932 and 1936. But Democrats were served a sharp warning two years ago when the Republicans elected blue-blooded, Bostonian Leverett Saltonstall to the governorship.

While the present survey is not a direct indication of the popularity of the new Republican state administration, the survey indicates that the G. O. P. has substantially held its lines in Massachusetts since 1936. Governor Saltonstall polled 54 per cent of the vote against 46 per cent for his Democratic opponent two years ago—or exactly the same figure shown in the two parties in today's Institute survey.

Even the outbreak of the war in Europe, which boosted the stock of the Democratic party considerably in many states, has apparently had little effect on the strength of the two major parties in Massachusetts. In an Institute survey in the Bay State last August the Republican vote was 55 per cent as compared with 54 per cent today.

The Massachusetts political trend since 1936—revealing a 9-point slide for the Democrats in four years—is shown in the following figures:

Wisconsin Dairy Farmers Stand to Make $25,000,000

That's What 1940 Income Will Be Over Year Ago If Prices Remain

Menomonee—(P)—The Wisconsin dairy farmer will be $25,000,000 richer this year than last if present fluid milk prices continue during the next six months, Ralph E. Ammon, director of the state department of agriculture, told the Wisconsin Dairyman's association convention Thursday.

He explained, in an address prepared for delivery at the opening session, that a variation of one percent per hundred-weight in the milk price meant a difference of $1,000,000 a year to the state farmers' pocketbook, and added:

"The average price per hundred-weight during the past six months, October through March, has been 25 cents above the same months a year ago. If that average is maintained for the next six months, it will result in $25,000,000 being added to the income of Wisconsin farmers."

Explaining the activities of the department, Ammon said the Wisconsin dairy industry called upon it for 47 distinct services having an estimated value of $22,000,000 to the dairy industry.

He asserted that the services cost the state only $261,000 yearly plus an additional $240,000 paid directly to the farmers for indemnity in bovine tuberculosis and Bang's disease control—giving a return of $840 to the dairy industry for each dollar expended by the department.

"Every service is intended as a step towards the goal of improving farm income and the welfare of agriculture in general," Ammon said.

Another speaker, Dr. C. F. Huffman of Michigan State college, told the convention that "drinking milk from properly fed cows is the best way for the human family to get its pasture."

"Young pasture grass grown on well fertilized soil is more than a feed, it is a tonic and nature has loaded it with most all of the health promoting factors other than the sunshine vitamin," he said.

"Such grass is nature's most perfect feed and excels in nutritive properties the glorified grass, 'spinach'."

It Seems That Ickes Didn't Do So Well on California Trip

Editor's Note: During Westbrook Pegler's vacation, the daily column by Hugh S. Johnson will be substituted in the Post-Crescent.

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C.—Several letters have come in asking: "How about reports of Mr. Ickes' highly successful peace mission in California?" I didn't know. It seemed a marvel to me, but I have no leg-man who legs that far and later press reports have been scant and inconclusive. However, a volunteer scout has just air-mailed me the following which is better than I could do—so I quote it almost verbatim:

"Your sparring partner 'Donald Duck' Ickes has had little luck in playing the pigeon of peace in the Democratic dovehole in California. In fact, California doves are about to go into court on the thing. Donald squirmed out of Washington about 10 days ago; destination unknown. Shortly, he arrived in San Francisco on 'official business.' He was here to give the Democrats the business and to bring harmony among the many divergent factions in the party.

"High in the fog, at the Mark Hopkins hotel on Nob hill, he gathered the lads together, the Olsonites and the McAdoodies. Much to everyone's surprise—it was announced that the waddling one had been successful, that the liberals and the conservatives had agreed to lie down together like Isalah's lamb and lion—they'd all stand together on a ticket pledged to Mr. Ickes' boys for a third term."

"Ickes departed. The fog lifted. The fun began. Feathers began to fall from discontented doves. Manchester Boddy, Los Angeles publisher, was the first to have himself included out. Too much Washington influence declared the liberal angelino. J. Frank Burke, California radio station owner and political commentator, who was the governor's campaign manager, was the next to go C.I.O. and Workers Alliance members next prevailed upon California's Lieutenant Governor Eli E. Patterson to get off the 'harmony' ticket. They wondered wainell a most left of all leftwingers was coming with the dove of peace unless it was to make the bird fly in circles.

"Popular Patterson is now leading a slate of his own and the ticket could not have been reduced if the names were illuminated with crimson neon. With Patterson now thumbing his nose at the Ickes list of harmony loving lads it is expected that Congressman Lee E. Guyer will be the next to take a walk (He has already done so in the 48 hours since this was written). Finally word had come from McAdoo himself 'I'm out of politics and am unwilling to reenter.'

Instead of Two States, State Now Has Four

"The self-elimination of McAdoo from the Olson-McAdoo slate now leaves the ticket headed by Governor Olson and Olson is headed for political oblivion what with a recall staring him in the face more than 200,000 signatures of the necessary 300,000 have been secured upon recall petitions demanding a new gubernatorial election. With talent for cooling down a row. No bird can squawk and croon out of the bill."

Considering this report, we can only await with deep misgivings the news of Mr. Ickes' similar pilgrimage to Texas.

America's total farm mortgage debt amounted to $7,071,000,000 in 1939. For 1930 the total was $9,643,000,000 and in 1910 it was $3,203,000,000.

Doctors Will Discuss New Developments at Clinics

Madison— "Wisconsin physicians will again have an opportunity to bring better medical care to their patients by broadening their knowledge of the latest advances medical science has offered in the treatment of disease when the annual spring clinic days are held in April," the state medical society announced today.

"This is the second year that the state medical society has sponsored a special spring program of graduate medical education so that physician members of the society might be better prepared to protect the health of their patients and become more skilled in the treatment of disease. For 99 years, Wisconsin physicians have been holding annual scientific sessions at which physicians who are especially trained in the treatment of various diseases relate their experiences, and discuss case histories.

"For the convenience of attending physicians, the spring clinics will be held in three different cities in Wisconsin, one meeting to be held in Wausau on April 24, one in Watertown on April 25, and one in La Crosse on April 26. Specialists in medicine and surgery, treatment of children's diseases and skin diseases and in the management of childbirth have been secured by the council on scientific work of the society to appear before and discuss with Wisconsin physicians the many new developments in various phases of medicine.

"During the morning those in attendance will examine patients brought in by local physicians and

And this year's comfort standards still have some catching up to do to equal Buick's combination of four coil springs, recoil-mounted Knee-Action, the SUPER's five-foot front seat room and Foamtex cushions.

Eventually, perhaps, others may find a way to micropoise-balance engines after assembly in search of Buick's present silky smoothness.

They may get around to making Two-Way Direction Signals standard equipment instead of extras; they may heavy-up their frames, and generally seek to equal Buick's staunchness.

You'll step out front at the touch of an eager treadle, swing through the gear changes with light-and-easy finger-flicking, pilot a joyous traveler that's equally ready for work or play, and does everything with ease matched only by its smartness.

You'll drive the style-leader, the comfort-leader, the value-leader—a car full of things that will still be "new" a good two years from now.

"OPPRESSIVE LABOR PRACTICES"

Senator LaFollette has become author of a bill which forbids the use of persons to report to employers on union labor activities or membership and the political and economic views of employees, forbidding also hiring strikebreakers, threatening to move a plant because of industrial dispute, and banning the employment of armed guards even at a distance from the plant except to prevent theft of goods, and outlawing the ownership or possession of gas bombs or riot guns in protection of persons or property.

The aim of the bill is evident. It appears to be the result of the research of a committee which the senator has headed for many months.

But the bill is incomplete. It is one-sided. It does not take account of the fact that sometimes labor leaders are racketeers and that picket lines are merely destructive mobs.

No question will ever be settled right by shutting one eye. We need only look at our own village of Kohler in unusually tranquil Wisconsin to find the gaping holes in the Senator's measure. But if we take average conditions in other parts of the country the deficiencies of the proposed law grow and swell.

In hundreds of places across this broad land federal and state officers, prosecutors, sheriffs, marshals and deputies are running down hoodlums, thugs, murder suspects and gangsters who have "muscle" in on the labor movement wherever the smell of coin came to the sensitive nostrils of these gentlemen.

Senator LaFollette's bill would be in its present form an invitation, blessing, and virtual guarantee to such gentry. It would solidify their forces, increase their dividends and make more certain the safety of their depredations.

The Senator may think he is offering something in the interests of Labor. One of the most critical needs of Labor in America today is to be free from the oppressive tactics and operations of malevolent men pursuing malignant purposes and who pretend to belong to the ranks.

No such bill as the senator's is complete unless suitable and workable provisions are included to prevent overbearing and menacing actions in the name of Labor as well as the same sort of actions in the name of the employer.

THE MECHANICS OF OPERA

One of the heartening revelations of the drive to raise one million dollars for the Metropolitan Opera is the source of contributions. The larger gifts which have helped boost the amount raised to date to about $600,000 were hopefully expected. Not so certain were the smaller gifts which have been sent in from all over the country, dollar gifts from sailors, truck drivers, miners and children. These also are helping importantly.

The explanation of the variety of contribution sources is that the Met is no longer a local institution. The old "Diamond Horseshoe" remains but 20 of its 36 boxes are held in the name of estates, with the original and most interested occupant long dead. To the radio goes a large share of the credit for the country-wide interest in the opera. This factor has made the opera available not only to a much larger audience, now estimated at 10,000,000 radio listeners, but to a much more representative audience. Where the opera previously played chiefly to "the upper crust" it now plays to persons of all walks of life and of all ages.

Why then, it might be asked, has the Metropolitan Opera Company become involved financially? The answer is found in a side of the opera seldom taken into account by the average listener, the mechanics of staging an opera. These are expensive. For instance, the Metropolitan keeps 6,500 costumes on hand, needing about 200 for each performance. The production of a new opera like this year's "Le Nozze di Figaro" required $9,000 worth of new costumes. Then, with the American opera giving eight performances a week compared to four in Europe, rehearsals are continuous, and the performers and orchestra cannot be expected to work for nothing. And, finally, because the present, ancient opera house is mechanically obsolete, a large stage crew is needed, adding more cost.

A new opera house would help cut down operating expenses—one reason for the current campaign.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

Some weeks ago these columns commented critically upon the results of the state bureau of personnel's civil service examinations for applicants for the position of secretary of the Wisconsin public service commission, a highly important regulatory agency.

Developments since that time have eminently justified that criticism, confirmed the opinion that the state civil service system sorely needs new life and morale.

For now we have that state bureau telling us, in effect, that a man who was so poorly qualified for the job a month ago that he flunked the examination ignominiously, in the intervening period somehow learned enough about an extremely specialized position to rank highest in a field of 42 competitors, most of whom were repeating the examination, also.

A month ago Calmer Browy, who has held the job for about two years, failed to get a passing grade in the first test given by the bureau.

This week he is rated first. It shows, it seems to us, that there is something fundamentally askew in the state personnel office, something which must be remedied soon if public faith in the integrity and capacity of the personnel bureau is to be maintained.

We suggest it for Governor Heil's study. The governor is empowered to appoint the head of the personnel bureau. Heil has now been in office almost a year and a half, and he has made no move to fill the vacancy which arose with the resignation of Director Garey. It is time to act.

THE YOUNG MEN WHO ARE LOST

The jobless young men in America today are nearly inarticulate unless we turn to want-ad columns. Then we find in short, abbreviated words stories packed with the tragedy of our national political abuses.

The samples we are about to give are from one issue of another paper, but they are fair samples nonetheless. Each word in them speaks a page, each line tells a completed story.

"Young man, 29, married, needs work, very urgent, do anything lawful. References."

"Young man will pay a hundred dollars cash for steady job. Have driven truck. Sober, reliable, strong."

"Young man with wife and two small children. Hungry! Must have work immediately. Take anything!"

"Young man, American, sober, reliable, college graduate will work with pick and shovel, willing to do anything legitimate."

It would be an error for any historian who wants to tell the tragic tale of an abused and misdirected America to overlook the want-ads. They are freighted with the mystic breath of vibrant, muscled youth pleading, begging, for a chance to sweat.

What an awful commentary they are upon an Administration that has practically led Congress around by a ring in the nose, appointed its own Supreme Court, employed the billions in the banks to please its uncertain wishes and still dangles along the precipice of unemployment disaster.

THE WORD FOR IT

Once again we see demonstrated beyond peradventure that Wisconsin politics is irrational, inexplicable, unfathomable, and cockeyed.

Two Democratic factions are stumbling over each other in their greedy lunges for the Progressive vote which makes the state Democrats' popular following look puny by comparison.

Right wing disciples of Jefferson beckon coyly to Republicans to pitch in and stop Roosevelt by voting for Garner. Not to be outdone, a Milwaukee Progressive group sends out thousands of postcards admonishing Progressives to support Mr. Dewey, who at the same time is being boweyed by some of the Republican elements against whom the LaFollette Progressives have done battle for decades.

The college boy would say that screwy is the word for it.

And we would add that it shows what Wisconsin needs: fewer political parties and more political principles.

Opinions of Others

PURE AS A LILY

The members of Affiliated Garages of Chicago wish the public to understand that they had nothing to do with the murder of Marinus Hvid, a former member of their trade association, who was beaten to death by goons. To prove that they had nothing to do with it, they offer a $1,000 reward for arrest and conviction of his slayers.

Several months before his death Hvid was ordered by the association to pay it a fine of $75 and to order a customer to take his car back to the garage from which he had taken it to patronize Hvid. Hvid refused and was expelled from the association. The picketing of his garage by the union started about the same time.

The trade association was organized in the office of the union. The association members were introduced there to the man who became their executive director. Later they discovered that he had served a jail sentence for fraud. The union and the association got their legal advice from the same law office.

It has been remarked as unusual that the union would spend in picketing Hvid's garage about 80 times the annual dues it would have collected from his small force of employees had they been organized. The association's executive secretary drew approximately $9,000 last year for expenses, the nature of which he refuses to disclose. The association directors deny that they financed the strike against Hvid.

If the union will also offer a $1,000 reward, perhaps the public will be convinced that the unfortunate Hvid beat himself to death.—Chicago Tribune.

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—When he sailed for home last week, peace envoy Sumner Welles made no secret of the fact that he was deeply discouraged. The reasons for that discouragement now can be revealed.

When Welles held his first conversation with Mussolini immediately after his arrival in Italy, Il Duce suggested that Welles let him know what peace reaction he got from the Allies—especially the British, since they were the key to the situation.

So after getting rather a pessimistic picture from Premier Daladier in Paris, Welles went on to London. Daladier had told him France faced the alternative either of fighting through to the finish, or of complete surrender. And he described complete surrender as equivalent to an present peace on Germany's terms, because that would mean the eventual surrender of Tunisia, loss of French strength in North Africa, and beyond that the axis every time it waved a gun in the future.

Daladier said that France preferred to fight through to the bitter end.

This, however, was the known view of France, and what the axis powers waited for were the peace views of Great Britain. They figured she could control France.

These Welles found to be almost as pessimistic as the French. Prime Minister Chamberlain held that Hitler must go; that it was impossible to make peace while Hitler remained at the helm of Germany.

HITLER CEMENTS POSITION

So Welles, in conformity with his promise to Mussolini, advised him of the British position. He did this while he was still in London, in order to give Mussolini time to communicate with his axis partner.

The answer was Hitler's pilgrimage to confer with Il Duce at the Brenner Pass.

Not only did Hitler refuse to exit, but he entrenched himself more firmly than ever. He made it all too clear by his conference with Mussolini that he, and no one else, would remain in power in Germany. Also he worked out plans for the partition of the Balkans and a bigger and better axis of dictators.

Regarding the Balkans, it was arranged that Italy should maintain within its sphere of influence Rumania and Yugoslavia, and to a certain extent Greece. Russia was to have a free hand in Bulgaria, and in Turkey—if she was able to extend the axis straight to the Pacific ocean. This will include the greatest area in the world, all working as an alliance and with the closest economic cooperation.

Thus the Germans can get all the raw materials they need, and give the Russians all the technical experts they want. It is a combination which may be unbeatable.

Meanwhile the British, much more than people realize, are up against it. To fight on indefinitely may mean the disintegration of the empire. Yet to make peace now, means a precarious future in which the axis powers, led by little, will gnaw away at the empire.

Thus even before Sumner Welles had sailed for home, Germany had answered Roosevelt's peace move by cementing the Rome-Berlin Axis as never before, by dividing up the Balkans, and by extending the axis so as to include Russia and Outer Mongolia.

LABOR ACT
A meeting of the House Labor Committee was considering the Smith amendments to the national labor relations (Wagner) act. Drawled Arkansas's rookie Congressman Norrell:

"If the constitution can be amended, why not the Wagner Act? If the Lord was on earth today, He might even change some of his Ten Commandments."

Shot back Maryland's rookie Congressman D'Alessandro: "Yes, and one commandment he would add would be the national labor relations act. I'm against amending it."

Norrell comes from a farm district, D'Alessandro from a Baltimore labor district.

MERRY-GO-ROUND
Senator Pat Harrison, administration floor leader in the trade treaty battle, passed up no bet in organizing his forces for the fight. The wily Mississippian arranged for speakers to answer every argument that the opposition might advance. Chief among his oral battery are Clark of Missouri, George of Georgia, Connally of Texas, Brown of Michigan, with astute Jimmy Byrnes of South Carolina working behind the scenes lining up votes. . . . The civil liberties division of the justice department is quietly investigating the murder of Mrs. Laura Law, wife of a CIO organizer, in Aberdeen, Wash. Charges have been made that secret terrorist forces are operating in the area and that Mrs. Law was killed by these elements. . . . Representative Lindsay Warren is the object of much envy by his colleagues. The North Carolinian has just been renominated (tantamount to election) for his ninth term without opposition. . . . House Democratic Floor Leader Sam Rayburn is hanging up a new record this session. He will have all major appropriation bills through the chamber by April 18.

A Verse for Today

LAST ROW OF BALCONY

The one who enjoyed the music more Than any one there last night, Sat far away from the green stage door At the top of the star's last flight. No one loved music more than he In the last row of the balcony.

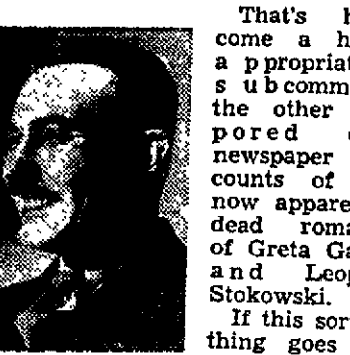

Others were nearer to the feast. Covered with silks they were. Sparkling with gems, they cared the least For the music's lift and stir. Anyway they cared less than he In the last row of the balcony.

When the notes faded with the gleam Of light and the crowd poured out, He took with him the artist's dream, His tired soul freed from doubt. For days he thrilled that it was he In the last row of the balcony.

A German camera can take 500 consecutive pictures in one-tenth of a second. The period of exposure is less than one-millionth of a second. The flight of a bullet can be recorded accurately by this device.

A Bystander In Washington

Washington—When a committee of congress gets to sleuthing, boy does it sleuth!

Stinnett
seat in congress will be an annual subscription to all the Hollywood and New York gossip columns.

What the legislators expect to learn from any published reports about Garbo is a little beyond me. Any movie fan this side of Honolulu could have told them in one two-syllable word: Nothing. But read the accounts they did and here's how it happened:

It's just routine for any committee or subcommittee, before making any recommendations on any matter, to go into it as thoroughly as possible. If personalities are involved, the background and character of those persons are put under as much of a microscope as the legislators can find. That's good. We, the people, deserve every ounce of that protection.

Somebody Said "Whoa!"

When the appropriations subcommittee came to that phase of its appropriations concerning the National Youth administration they noticed an item (reported to be about $2,500) for preliminary auditions for the all-American youth orchestra, which Mr. Stokowski plans to take on a goodwill tour of Latin America next July.

Somebody must have said: "Whoa, who's Stokowski?" And one thing must have led to another until the clerk was instructed to go to the Congressional library and get the reports of that Stokowski-Garbo romance of the spring of 1938. (Oh, yes, the clippings were there. You'd be dumfounded at all the things you can find in the Library of Congress.)

Mind you, this was all very secret . . . so secret, in fact, that the matter wasn't even written into the subcommittee's records. With secret sessions like that, you can't pull a public report out of a member with a pair of dentist's pliers. But the picture of an austere subcommittee of the house, scanning the items concerning the conjectured romance of lovely Greta and the colorful baton-waver of symphony orchestras, was a little too good for someone to keep to himself.

We all laugh. Aubrey Williams, National Youth administrator, was called before the committee earlier in the week, but whether this had anything to do with investigation in the romance matter couldn't be determined. One reliable source whispered that Mr. Williams was asked only about the extent of funds expended on the goodwill musical junket.

After that the clerk was sent on his secret mission to the congressional library and on a Saturday morning the committee went into the romantic articles.

Nothing came of it. Nothing could. We can almost see the bewilderment of the committee when they finally came to that inevitable full stop which La Garbo always supplies: "Ah, Mr. Stokov-v-v-ski. We are just good friends."

If Garbo's film press agents want a new life, they might say: "Garbo laughs—Stokowski, too—and the rest of us."

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

It must have been two other fellows who were doing so much talking about halting federal extravagance. It certainly can't have been the senate or the house. The way those boys are voting to blow in money and push the country deeper into the hole makes the porkers around a hog trough seem relatively on a strict diet.

You get a picture of democracy in our few and sad aspects when you watch congress open the mail during an election year and react to the cry for more gravy. And it ain't any technicolor treat, either.

A bill has been introduced in the New York legislature to make congress responsible for the proper construction of a house for thirty years after completion, and a lot of folks have built homes in the last five years will second the motion. It would compel builders to make good on any defects that turned up in the three years. But three months might be plenty. Too many of 'em start going to pieces the first three weeks.

The old-fashioned home that was built for a lifetime is getting scarcer and scarcer. You'd think some of these shacks being rushed up all over the country today were meant to last only through a preview.

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Much has been spoken and reams have been written in Washington on the psychological importance of the delegate primary election in Wisconsin next week, but little attention has been given to the fact that the results of that election will also unfold some interesting and important local political stories.

Wyngaard
forgotten that the men who are running as delegates under the banners of the respective Republican and Democratic candidates for the presidency are politicians on their own account, and that the reception they get at the polls Tuesday may have some influence in shaping their plans in state politics this year.

MR. CLAUSEN
There is, for example, Fred H. Clausen of Horicon, one of Wisconsin's best known businessmen and a man universally regarded as the leading potential Republican candidate for the senate in the state this year. But Mr. Clausen has been holding back because he and his advisors are curious about the kind of vote he will get as a Vandenberg delegate candidate next Tuesday.

E. W. Richardson of Ladysmith is in precisely the same position. Mr. Richardson probably will run for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket later this year, but his decision on will largely rest on the success of his campaign as a delegate candidate on the Vandenberg ticket.

Nor is that situation confined to the Vandenberg camp. The Dewey organization is dominated by potential candidates for some office or other, from Benny Gettelman to Fred R. Zimmerman.

Zimmerman, who wouldn't dream of denying that political office is the most pleasant occupation imaginable, will study closely his vote as a Dewey candidate next week.

This column retains the notion that Mr. Zimmerman may look higher than the secretary of state's office this year, and that it won't take a lot of coaxing if he wins as a Dewey candidate.

The Garner entourage in Wisconsin is likewise generously staffed with perennial candidates, and if the Garner ticket succeeds—which only the Garner people believe it will—you may expect to see Carroll, Finnegan, et al seeking places on the Democratic ticket this summer.

The same picture applies in the district delegate campaigns. In the Eighth, for example, Oscar Schmidt of Appleton, former assembly member, is running as a Dewey man. If he wins he will become a candi-

One of the most treasured books in my library is a little paper bound volume of Ian MacLaren's "Beside the Bonnie Briar Bush" which may have cost forty cents when it was published in 1895. Forty cents was a sum of money in the pay nannies—(the I worked ten hard hours in old man's garden for less.

On the flyleaf of the book is written "may you pattern your life after the good old Doctor of Drumtochty (page 15)," then the date June 23, 1897 and the signature of the lady who gave me the book. The lady had much of the regal dignity that we see and admire today in the Dowager Queen of England and the First Lady of America.

Well, I did try to pattern after Doctor MacLaren as long as my illusions lasted. They lasted for four years after I began to practice. Pasted inside the cover of the book is a letter I received from the donor 31 years ago, in the same even, clear handwriting as that of the inscription, the lines on both occasions showing a slight downhill tendency.

My dear Mr. Brady: I have been reminiscing (she spelled it correctly, I found when I consulted the dictionary—thinking of Chapin Street School and wishing I might see the little Brady boy . . . past my nineteenth year I date for congress, even if Congressmen Johns runs again, according to his friends. He may even run if he doesn't win a Republican convention seat, it is said.

LOUIS NOTE
An emissary of leading Madison Progressives recently visited at least one key voting center in the state to sound out sentiment on the various available Progressive candidates for governor.

One name suggested by the messenger was that of Orland S. Loomis of Mauston, former attorney general and a faithful wheelhorse for a decade. He found, in that particular locality, that while Progressives are generally fond of Loomis they also generally feel that he lacks the qualities of a successful candidate.

GEISEL WORKS
Among the capital personalities who put in long hours of work and rarely get any public mention must be included Elmer C. Geisel, acting director of the state budget bureau, who has reportedly lost weight in the last year in the strenuous job of helping the Heil financial experts pull themselves out of an uncomfortable budget dilemma. Geisel succeeded the veteran and well-loved James Borden, who died in harness during the budget hearings over a year ago. In the opinion of the capitol, he has performed tactfully and diligently in a tough assignment.

Burglar Caught at Janesville Clears New London Case

Admits Futile Attempt to Raid Oil Company District Office

New London — The attempted burglary of the Wadhams Oil company district office here about a month ago was admitted by George Lanahan, 37, professional burglar arrested at Janesville recently. Chief of Police Harry D. Macklin announced yesterday after a telephone conversation with the Janesville sheriff. The burglary was frustrated as an alarm was sounded and tear gas was released when Lanahan entered the building. He escaped down the adjoining railroad tracks, he told the sheriff.

New London police hope to have Lanahan questioned further in connection with the blowing of the safe at the Knapstein Brewery here sometime earlier. The safe was blown here about the same time as that of a Berlin brewery which was opened in a similar manner. Lanahan has been placed in the state prison at Waupun and efforts will be made to get information from there.

'Best Broadcasts' Among New Non-Fiction Books at Library

New London — Headlining the group of new non-fiction books received at the New London Public library this week is a new type of literary collection, "Best Broadcasts of 1938-1939." It contains 32 outstanding radio broadcasts which were heard in America from Jan. 1, 1938 to July 1, 1939. The programs of every conceivable sort were selected from over 6,000 scripts and are presented in their "as broadcast" version. Each is preceded by a short history of the program and analysis of its merits. Max Wylie, director of script and continuity for the Columbia Broadcasting company, is the editor of the work.

In his book, "Southward, Ho!", William LaVarre tells the exciting inside story of the men who tap the sources of the earth's tremendous wealth in South America. LaVarre has crossed continental South America at 18 points in search of diamonds, emeralds and gold, oil, rubber, drugs, wool and minerals. He has delved into the jungles of Yucatan where near Mayan ruins a hundred-million-dollar industry flourishes; he has climbed the heights of Guatemala's volcanoes where the Quiche Indians guard the secret source of rubber; he has sought gold in Darien, rubber in the Brazilian interior, cocaine in Peru and emeralds in the Andes.

"Within Germany" Information about what the German people are thinking and doing in Germany today is presented in a book, "Within Germany," by Oswald Garrison Villard, one of America's foremost journalists and the only American who has been in both England and Germany since the war began.

"Alaska Challenge" is the account of a walking trip through the trackless wastes of British Columbia to Alaska by a depression-struck young couple who became restless of conventional living in southern California.

In "Fair and Warmer" Joseph Gaer explains the science of the weather, the problems of forecasting, and the activities of the United States Weather bureau.

One of the most exciting books in the Rivers of America series is "The Wabash" by William E. Wilson.

Adrian Sommer Wins Birdhouse Contest

Dale — A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Kester the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Meyers motored to Baraboo Tuesday to visit Mrs. Meyers' mother, who is ill. Irene Meyers, who has been caring for her grandmother, came home with them.

Mrs. Russell Atkinson of Kansas City, Kans., is on the way to recovery from her recent serious illness. She was formerly Gertrude Kuehn of Dale.

A birdhouse building contest was held at the school. Adrian Sommer won first prize, Delores Schroeder, second, and John Much, third. The birdhouses are on exhibition at the Zachow store.

Girl Scouts Are Guests Of Auxiliary

GIRL Scouts of Troop 16, Orthopedic school, and their leaders were guests at a meeting of the Auxiliary to the Outagamie County Medical society Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Robert T. McCarthy, 401 W. Prospect avenue. In the group were Gloria Meyer, Dorothy Hedberg, Ellen Buetow, Eunice Kirk, Carol Quella, Isabel Huss, Shirley Seidl, Marion De Goey, Beverly Teela, Elaine Hoffman and Loretta Gerner. Also present were the troop leaders, Miss Marion Binzel, Milwaukee, and Miss Charlotte Leins, West Bend, both of them Lawrence college students, Miss Florence Miller, Miss Carla Naber and Mrs. Basil McKenzie, Appleton Girl Scout commissioner.

The girls presented a program which included a tap dance by Elaine Hoffman, enactment of a model meeting and a shadow play, "Little Red Riding Hood," for which Dorothy Hedberg wrote and read the script.

After the Girl Scout program Mrs. E. J. Zeiss, member of the medical auxiliary, gave a paper on the Wagner bill. It was announced at the business session that Mrs. R. C. Arveson, Frederic, Wis., wife of the president of the state medical society, would be a guest of the auxiliary's next meeting, May 16. Also scheduled for May, although the exact date has not yet been announced, is the annual open house meeting at which the auxiliary will be hostess at the Masonic temple. Mrs. D. W. Curtin, Kimberly, has been appointed chairman of the meeting.

Mrs. John Vette, W. Foster street, entertained the Friendship club last night at her home. Mrs. Merrill Latham won the schafskopf prize and Mrs. John Minsky the traveling prize. On April 18 Mrs. Fred Lynch, 1302 S. Oneida street, will be hostess.

Miss Orpha Paul, Kaukauna, entertained the "T" bridge club last night at her home, prizes going to Mrs. Arlin Jennerjahn, Mrs. A. A. Krabbe and Miss Adele Steinhauer. In two weeks Mrs. Roger Enrich, E. Summer street, will be hostess to the club.

Miss Dorothy Look entertained the G.G. Club at her home on Wilson street, Little Chute, Wednesday night. Court whist and music provided entertainment, and those present were Mrs. Harry Valentine, Kimberly; the Misses Virginia Wildenberg, Grace Hammen, Kay Vander Pas, Vitalis Wulgaert, Rosemary Lucassen, Martha Van Dornen, and Frances Anderson, Little Chute. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Valentine, Kimberly.

Miss Lucille Erdman entertained her bridge club Thursday evening at the Candle Glow Tea room. Prizes at bridge were won by Mrs. Mary Koepsel and Miss Agnes Wenzlaff.

North Side Bridge club was entertained at a 1 o'clock luncheon Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. A. Konz, 606 N. Oneida street. Bridge was played after the luncheon, with prizes going to Miss Dina Geenen and Mrs. Henry Bast. Mrs. Bast and Mrs. Oscar Kunitz were guests. Miss Geenen will be hostess at the club's next meeting.

Honors at cards went to Mrs. M. D. Bro, Mrs. E. F. McGrath and Mrs. Peter Stark when their bridge club met for a 1 o'clock luncheon and bridge Thursday afternoon at the Candle Glow Tea room. Arrangements had been made by Mrs. Ray Eichelberger.

Bodily Movement In Drama Subject Of Study for Club

The use of bodily movement in dramatic expression was studied Thursday by members of Curtin Call, dramatic society of Appleton High school. The program, which consisted of a series of pantomimes, was under the direction of Mary Bob Knapp and Frances Wheeler.

The first sketch, entitled "Miss Gold," was from George Eliot's "Silas Marner." Hugh Miller had the part of Silas; Kenneth Thompson, Dunstan Cass; and Dete Nolas, the unknown woman. In the "Lady of the Tiger" pantomime Virginia Schuh was the princess; Janet Jones, the lady-in-waiting; Donald Smith, the king; Howard Farrand, the courtier; and John Leonard the guard. Dorothy Gerlach had the part of Galecta in the "Marble Lady" sketch. Jay Main was Pygmalion and Margaret O'Connor, Cynisca, his wife.

The lighting group of the organization will have charge of the next program of Curtin Call. At that time a nominating committee will be elected to draw up a slate of officers for next year. Seniors of the organization will constitute a steering committee for the senior vod-vil. A short meeting of the group was held Thursday after the regular club meeting.

Nineteen new members were admitted into the lighting and stagecraft divisions of the organization. They are Robert Sigl, Edward Reuter, Jacob Pawers, Fred Trezise, Donald Jones, James Weisgerber, Joseph Merkes, Russell Meertz, Harold Delgen, Betty Schneider, Doris Rehmer, Jane Melby, Marjorie Heins, Gloria Gill, Helen Kluge, Jean Balliet, Arlene Masonette, Stella Farquhar and June Fumal.

Lona Lindquist of Shawano Engaged To David Rickaby

Announcement was made this week of the approaching marriage of Miss Lona Lindquist, daughter of Shawano, to David Clairmont Rickaby, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Rickaby, New London. The ceremony will take place April 9 at the Sacred Heart church in Shawano.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Shawano High school and has been employed at Lauerman's department store at Shawano the last three years. Mr. Rickaby was graduated from New London High school in 1930 and has been employed the last six years with the Press-Republican, where is foreman of the composing room.

Schmitt-Wilke

Miss Veronica Schmitt, daughter of Mrs. Mary Schmitt, Pewaukee, became the bride of Ervin Wilke, son of William Wilke, New London, at a ceremony at Milwaukee Monday morning. The couple is making its home with the bridegroom's father at New London, where Mr. Wilke is engaged in electrical service work. Ervin Wilke graduated from New London High school and operated a garage at Milwaukee until recently.

sponse will be returned by Mrs. R. M. Atcherson, whose daughter Lisbeth is a member of the organization.

Invitations have been issued by Geraldine Manning, Etta Manning, Billie Kolb and Miss Atcherson. Entertainment has been planned by Genevieve Schaefer and Barbara Jane Rosebush. Taking charge of the refreshments is the task of Jane Gee, Sally Gorrow and Mary Bob Knapp. Constance Vaughn, Judy Marston and Mary Kay O'Keefe will supervise the informal reception.

Advisers to Girl Reserves are Miss Mary Baker, dean of girls, Miss Adela Klumb, head of the English department, and Mrs. Werner Witte.

THREE MENASHA GIRLS ARE BRIDES-TO-BE

Romance, the inseparable companion of spring, is in evidence already, in spite of recent snows and dismal weather. To the constantly growing list of brides-to-be have been added the names of these three Menasha girls. At the left is Miss Marion Picard, whose engagement to John W. Hubers, 402 E. Forest avenue, Neenah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter M. Hubers, Kimberly, was announced by her mother, Mrs. Paul N. Picard, 421 Second street, Menasha, on Easter Sunday. The wedding is planned for midsummer.

A June bride will be Miss Helen C. Christensen, center, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Christensen, 434 Third street, Menasha, have announced her engagement to Thomas J. Ryan, son of John Ryan, 332 Garfield avenue, Menasha.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Lickert, 406 Third street, Menasha, have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Erna, right, to Melvin A. Wolgram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wolgram, 1416 N. Erb street, Appleton. The wedding will take place June 15. Miss Lickert is employed as telephone operator at the Banta Publishing company, Menasha.

LaVahn Maesch Presents Organ Program on Historical Lines

LA VAHN MAESCH, of the faculty of Lawrence Conservatory of Music, presented a varied and well arranged organ recital last night at Lawrence Memorial chapel.

His program was planned on historical lines, first featuring compositions by old masters. The delicate "Toccata per l'Elevazione" by Frescobaldi and the short but attractive "Prelude" by Clerambault were of especial note in this group; the registration of the latter in double octaves was unusual and appealing.

A humorous note was introduced in an arrangement of Rameau's early program piece, "The Hen." The faithfulness with which organ reeds can reproduce the cackling of chickens must be a little confounding to organ builders, but the applause left no doubt as to the audience enjoyment of the effect.

In his Bach group, Mr. Maesch presented some less-programmed selections of that master — a worthy idea, for often performers and listeners alike miss new beauty by staying too close to standard repertoire. The Sonatina, "The Sinfonia to the best," and the Sinfonia to "We thank Thee, God" — the latter theme is also used in a violin sonata — should be heard more often.

Mr. Maesch closed his program with twentieth century compositions, wisely avoiding the use of that word of varied interpretation, "modern," in describing them. He was at his best in the Bossi "Scherzo," a type of composition that

Knights Will Hear Talk on Father Duffy

WALTER MELCHIOR, Appleton attorney who was acquainted personally with Father Duffy, the well-loved World War chaplain, will speak about the life and character of Father Duffy at a breakfast for Appleton branch No. 6, Catholic Knights of Wisconsin, Sunday morning at St. Joseph's hall. Mr. Melchior was a member of the 150th machine gun battalion in the World War, and often served mass for Father Duffy in France.

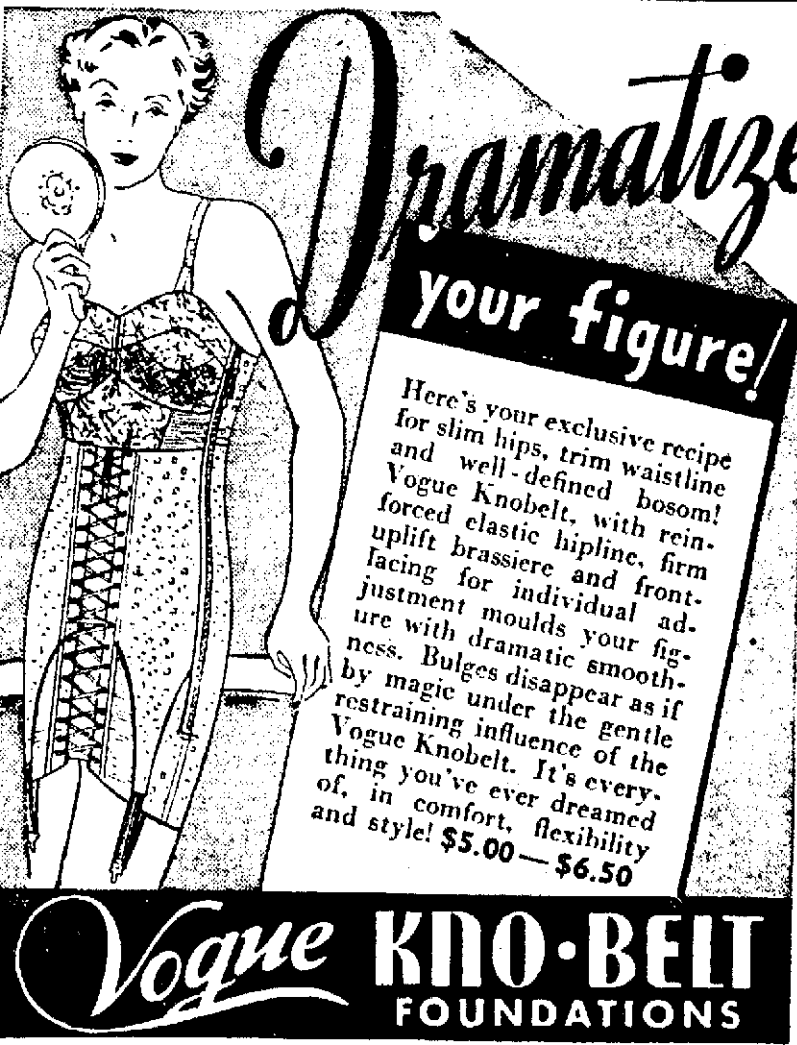

The branch members will receive their Easter communion at the 8 o'clock mass Sunday morning, and the breakfast will follow. They will meet at 7:45 in the hall to march to the church in a body.

Plans for an open card party at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, April 30, were made by Delta chapter, Employees Mutual Benefit association, at its meeting yesterday afternoon at Odd Fellows hall. Mrs. Lloyd Koehnke was named general chairman of the party.

Fifty-two persons were at the meeting yesterday, a feature of which was the initiation of Mrs. Mae Krueger as a new member. Cards and dice were played after the business session, prizes going to Mrs. Fred Holtz at bridge; to Mrs. Emerald Plannann at schafskopf; and to Mrs. Harry Sell at dice.

Appleton council, United Commercial Travelers, will entertain at its annual dinner for the outgoing senior counselor and the retiring president of the women's auxiliary at 6:30 Saturday night at Odd Fellows hall. The guests of honor will be Ralph N. Hubbell, who served the council as senior counselor during the last year, and Mrs. A. A. Krueger, who was head of the auxiliary during the same period. Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Bewick and their entertainment committee are in charge.

Arrangements for the dinner and the cards and dancing which will follow it. Initiation of a large class of candidates will take place at a meeting of the men's organization at 2:30 in the afternoon, also at Odd Fellows hall.

Candidates for Offices in April Election are Speakers At Meeting of Voters' League

WITH a firm-toned handbell ringing time on candidates for election, the first annual League of Women Voters candidates dinner Thursday night at Hotel Appleton moved briskly through an evening of some 25 speeches, characterized by concise statements of qualifications, the inevitable ice-breaking story, a few harangues and downright party fervor. Seventy-five persons attended the dinner.

Carl Bertram, coordinator for Appleton Vocational school, explained the referendum on teachers tenure. Speaking for the Vandenberg faction of the Republican party were Dr. C. L. Kolb, county chairman; Charles Jackson, De Pere, party worker; and Winford H. Johnson, Kiel, Vandenberg instructed candidate. Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimons, Jr., Fond du Lac, spoke for the Garner-for-President faction of the Democratic party as candidate for the endorsed Garner instructed delegate.

J. Norman Basten, Green Bay, spoke for the straight Roosevelt endorsed faction. Representatives of the Dewey-for-President group and the Roosevelt-Farley group were not present at the meeting.

Local candidates who spoke were Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and Albert C. Rule, candidates for mayor; Miss Dorothea Leisinger and Edward E. Sager, for city clerk; Joseph J. Kox and Martin Hendricks, for city treasurer; Alfred W. Wickesberg and Lloyd Schindler, for city engineer; Mrs. E. W. St. Clair, for board of education. Aldermanic candidates included C. D. Thompson, E. P. Grignon, Reinhold Hanneman, Robert De Land and William Fallick, and county board supervisor candidates present were Patrick J. Heenan, Louis Bonini and R. M. Atcherson.

Mrs. H. F. Scherzinger, president of Appleton League of Women Voters, welcomed the speakers and guests, and Mrs. Clyde Cavert was chairman of the event.

New Member Joins Zeta Tau Alumnae

A new member, Mrs. Charles Hahn, was received into Appleton, Alumnae of Zeta Tau Alpha at a meeting last night at the home of Miss Ada Rademacher, 919 N. Hariman street. Mrs. Hahn, who formerly lived in Akron, Ohio, was a member of the Akron alumnae chapter.

A musical puzzle was conducted by Miss Ramona Roehl who gave a brief sketch of Edward MacDowell's life. Bridge was played and prizes won by Mrs. Hahn, Mrs. Charles Miller and Mrs. Margaret Buswell. Easter decorations were used on the table in the form of decorated eggs in little nests, and the refreshments carried out the same theme. Miss Roehl was assistant hostess.

The group voted to send a delegation from Appleton to the province convention at Milwaukee May 4 and 5.

Mrs. Carl Witte entertained her bridge club last night at her home, 907 W. Elsie street. Prizes were won by Mrs. Rav Schwallier, Mrs. Ora Wunderlich and Mrs. Adelard Thibodeau. The club will meet next Thursday at Mrs. Wunderlich's home.

Members of the Eight Belles club met Thursday night at the home of Miss Edna Rindal, 540 N. Locust street. At the business meeting plans were made for a swimming party April 5. Games and other entertainment followed. Those present were Jane Simon, Doris Rehmer, Joyce Nutting, Geraldine Cumber, Betty Strobl and Pat McGilligan. Next Thursday the club will meet at Miss Simon's home, 830 N. Bennett street.

Church Delegation Attends Conference

Mrs. Wilmer D. Schlafer, Mrs. M. O. Fenton and Mrs. Vern Ames were in Green Bay yesterday for a conference of Methodist women of Appleton district for the purpose of electing delegates to the provincial meeting in Fond du Lac soon. Mrs. Schlafer represented the Social Union of First Methodist church and Mrs. Fenton and Mrs. Ames the Home and Foreign Missionary societies.

An apron party for the congregation of Trinity English Lutheran church will be held at 7:30 Monday evening in the sub auditorium of the church, under auspices of Ladies Aid society. Each guest will pay a penny for each inch of his or her waistline. Mrs. C. H. Engberg is chairman of entertainment, and the luncheon committee includes Mrs. A. C. Roehl, chairman; Mrs. Oliver Frogner and Mrs. Harlow Wickert. The reception committee consists of Mrs. John Geer and Mrs. Frank Tremi.

Miss Buda May gave a topic on "Stewardship" and Mrs. Edwin Van Horn discussed current events at the meeting of Women's Missionary society of Emmanuel Evangelical church Thursday afternoon at the church. Miss Laura Kollath gave a topic also, and Mrs. Charles Selig was chairman and led devotions. Thirty-five members were present.

Local candidates who spoke were Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and Albert C. Rule, candidates for mayor; Miss Dorothea Leisinger and Edward E. Sager, for city clerk; Joseph J. Kox and Martin Hendricks, for city treasurer; Alfred W. Wickesberg and Lloyd Schindler, for city engineer; Mrs. E. W. St. Clair, for board of education. Aldermanic candidates included C. D. Thompson, E. P. Grignon, Reinhold Hanneman, Robert De Land and William Fallick, and county board supervisor candidates present were Patrick J. Heenan, Louis Bonini and R. M. Atcherson.

Mrs. H. F. Scherzinger, president of Appleton League of Women Voters, welcomed the speakers and guests, and Mrs. Clyde Cavert was chairman of the event.

Miss Marion Dietz Is Guest at Shower

A miscellaneous shower was given Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. John Knapstein, Jr., Greenville, in honor of Miss Marion Dietz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dietz, route 1, Hortonville, who will be married April 6 to Peter Williamson, Greenville. Forty guests were present. Schafskopf and Chinese checkers furnished the entertainment. Prizes were won by Irene Tennie, Theresa Jochman and Florence Dietz.

Miss Esther Tiesling, who will be married April 6 to Edward Fuerst, was honored at a miscellaneous shower Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Fuerst, 1518 S. Kerman avenue. Cards and dice were played, prizes at the former going to Mrs. Walter De Shaney and Miss Pearl Frederick, and at dice, to Mrs. Arthur Schink and Miss Margaret Werner. Miss Betty Frederick won the traveling prize at dice.

Those present were Mrs. Conrad Grishaber, Mrs. Edward Funk, Mrs. Edward Plach, Mrs. Lawrence Mitchell, Mrs. James De Shaney, Mrs. Walter De Shaney, Mrs. Otto Frederick, Mrs. Arthur Schink, Mrs. William Frederick, Mrs. Lawrence Kaufman, Mrs. Joseph Schimbers, Mrs. Alois Schimbers, Mrs. George Kauth, Mrs. Arthur Tiesling, Mrs. Ida Renier, Miss Mary Grishaber, Mrs. Margaret Grishaber, Miss Margaret Werner, Miss Pearl Frederick, Miss Genevieve Tiesling, Miss Mabel Tiesling, Miss Dolores Frederick, Miss Betty Frederick, Miss Harriet Mort, Miss Ruth Tiesling and Miss Catherine Fuerst.

Everett Roubush Plays Accompaniment For Joseph Laderont

When Joseph Laderont, the rising young French-Canadian tenor, appeared in recital recently at Buffalo he was accompanied by Everett Roubush, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Roubush, 832 E. Eldorado street. In commenting on the concert the critic of the Buffalo Evening News said, "Everett Roubush was a skillful accompanist and shared with the tenor the enthusiastic applause of the audience." Roubush, a graduate of Lawrence conservatory and the Chicago Musical college, is located in New York, where he is engaged as a vocal coach and accompanist. He is also appearing as pianist on the Texaco program at the present time.

Cars Must Carry New

Licenses by April 1

Police Chief George T. Prim reminded car owners today that 1940 license plates must be displayed by Monday.

He said the police department Monday would "start picking up" drivers whose cars do not carry the new plates.

The police chief warned further that numerous "one-light" drivers have been observed in the city during recent evenings and that they are liable to arrest.

CHALLENGES LAW

Milwaukee—(3)—Constitutionality of the new state code law, particularly as it applies to cosmetics, was challenged in circuit court yesterday by Edgar Perry, operator of a beauty parlor. Married Women Employees Feel Brunt of Barlow's Economizing

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Tax Commissioner Elmer E. Barlow announced today that the recent discharges of personnel resulting from his tax department reorganization program includes 33 married women and disclosed that he has adopted an employment policy favoring unmarried women employees over those whose husbands are gainfully employed.

Barlow's public disclosure came as a surprise to the capital, and immediately inspired speculation on the legality of the tax department head's decision. It was recalled that Attorney General John E. Martin on several occasions has ruled in opinions to county boards that marital status cannot be set up as a disqualification for public employment under the constitution.

It also recalled that Governor Heil two weeks ago in a Milwaukee speech announced that he would no longer tolerate persons on the public payroll whose husbands or wives are also employed, either in public or private enterprise. Barlow said however that his order had no connection with executive office policy.

Discussing his policy, Barlow commented: "In completing my reorganization in this department, where ability was equal and all other factors were equal, preference was given to single women in assigning employment."

"All married women who are released have husbands who have permanent employment and a sufficient income in my opinion to provide properly for the support of their wife until she can obtain other employment elsewhere if she chooses to do so," he said.

$109,000 Saving
He said that the salary ranges of the dismissed employees ranged from the lowest bracket to the highest, and said that the final net saving per year to be realized from his two sweeping reorganization orders would be $109,480 or 21 per cent of the total department payroll.

Normally a policy such as that announced today by the tax administrator would be a violation of the state civil service law, which besides guaranteeing equality of opportunity in public employment for all persons, also provides a seniority system under which veteran employees are given security over new recruits.

Barlow pointed out, however, that the act of the 1939 legislature which reorganized the tax department under his command also gives him wide power to hire and fire in the department without reference to seniority.

Keep 197 Employees
The tax department's payroll annually before his recent reorganization orders—which reduced income tax and property tax field offices throughout the state—was $522,600, Barlow reported. Reorganization and the dismissal of 37 employees will bring a net decrease in salaries of $109,480.

Effective April 1 the tax department will function with 197 employees, compared with 254 under the old system, or a decrease of 22 per cent.

Barlow observed that the "reductions are not after adding 8 auditors to the individual field auditing staff thereby increasing the number of auditors assigned to that work by approximately 50 per cent. If such increase were not made, an additional saving of $19,000 would have been effected and the number of employees would have been further decreased to that extent."

Three Men Purchase Newspaper at Beloit

Beloit Wis.—(3)—Purchase of the Daily News Publishing company by three men identified with the newspaper for 25 years or more was announced yesterday.

The buyers are R. H. Collins, C. F. Karstaedt and M. H. Dobson. The publishing company formerly was owned by the estate of D. B. Worthington and his sons, Ned and Dean. B. P. Eldred Sr., president of the second national bank of Beloit, a member of the former board of directors, will continue on the new board, becoming president. Collins and Dobson will be vice presidents. Karstaedt, who is president of the Inland Daily Press association, will be secretary-treasurer, and Dwight Woolsey will be a member of the board and legal counsel.

The Daily News succeeded the Beloit Citizen when C. W. Mettler purchased the citizen in 1892. Worthington bought the paper in 1897, and in 1915 bought the Beloit Free Press. A year later he built the present Daily News building. He died in 1925.

KEEPS DRY

Pensacola, Fla.—(3)—Prince Morris, a Negro mortician, opened the door of his ambulance, but slammed it hard after one quick look. He beat a path to police headquarters and breathlessly explained he had seen the form of a white person in his ambulance stretcher that should have been empty.

Investigating officers found a slightly tipsy gent who explained: "It looked like a pretty good place to get out of the rain."

Kehl Will Direct Haresfoot Chorus

6 Original Numbers by American Teacher to Be Presented

Leo Kehl, one of America's outstanding authorities on dancing, has been engaged for the sixth consecutive year to direct the chorus and specialty routines of the University of Wisconsin Haresfoot club's 1940 musical comedy, "Serve It Hot," which will be presented in Appleton High school auditorium Thursday night, April 18.

Kehl is at work directing the 150 "chorus girls" who are trying out for the all-male show. Only 16 "chorines" will remain when the show opens its annual road trip at LaCrosse April 18.

Six chorus numbers, instead of the usual four, will be presented in this year's comedy, all of them conceived by Kehl who has had considerable Broadway experience.

Kehl is the author of five textbooks on stage and tap dancing and has taught dancing to numerous celebrities. He is president of the National Association of Dancing Masters.

Highway Traffic Foe of Wild Life

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—That motorists kill considerable quantities of wild life and game in Wisconsin is indicated in a record sent to the conservation department by Conservation Warden O. K. Johnson of Shawano county.

Johnson reported on the tabulation kept by Ed Bartel, county highway patrolman, of the auto-killed birds and animals found on the 21 miles of his patrol in a single year. He listed 17 pheasants, 8 squirrels, 6 partridges, 7 muskrats, 14 rabbits, 23 chickens 4 skunks, 1 raccoon, 4 owls, 19 dogs and 42 cats.

Seasonal Road Signs To Be Put on Highways

Chilton—Seasonal road signs limiting gross loads to 9,000 pounds will be put on all county trunk highways this weekend and the first days of next week, according to Ray Jensen, county highway commissioner.

The signs will remain up until the frost is out of the ground and the seasonal breakup is over. The purpose is to protect the county highways from being cut up by too heavy loads during the time that the frost is going out of the ground. Mr. Jensen warns carriers that every effort will be made this spring to enforce strict observance of the weight limit.

Expert Does Not Count on Good Breaks

BY ELY CULBERTSON

An expert has many points of superiority over the average player, of course, but probably none of them is so important as the increased safety factor he employs. The average player is much too inclined to expect "good breaks." The expert always is pessimistic. He may hope for good breaks, but he does not count on them except when he must assume a favorable lay of cards for the success of his contract. Whenever safety measures are possible he uses them.

Today's hand was played in a recent national tournament, and only two of the declarers were successful.

West opened the fourth highest heart, and dummy's ten was played to cover the queen East if he had the queen. The ten held the trick, however, and now at almost every table a 3-3 split in the diamond suit was played for, in order to fulfill the nine trick contract. The diamonds breaking four and two, this plan did not work.

At only two tables was the correct technique used. After winning the ten of hearts dummy led a spade. At cursory glance this might appear to be very dangerous, since South has not a sure-spade stopper, but it should be noted that only in the exceedingly remote event that West should hold five spades could the spade suit be run off for that many tricks by the defenders. I say "exceedingly remote" because that would mean that West had opened a heart from the queen, holding five spades with two top honors (since even if West held five spades, if East held two honors the suit would be blocked).

East put up the queen of spades and, suspecting a hoax, returned a low spade which declarer ducked, and which was won by West's ace. This gave the declarer a count on the spade suit, locating East with an original holding of five.

Now, when a heart was returned, declarer cashed both the ace and king. East discarded a club and a spade. From there on it was simple. The ace and king of diamonds were cashed, declarer unblocking the ten and nine, and were followed by the ace and king of clubs.

Now the declarer had a choice of two different throw-in plays on East—he could lead the queen and another diamond, compelling East to concede the last spade to the jack, or concede East two spade tricks for a forced lead up to dummy's queen-eight of diamonds.

THE HOME GARDENER

by EDWIN H. PERKINS

Pruning is a gardening task which must be performed before growth becomes well advanced. Pruning after shrubs are well leaved out robs the plants of the energy spent in making the cut-out growth. Pruning too far in advance of the upward flow of sap may not show up dead or dying branches. In the far North it is still too early for pruning while Southern gardeners have no time to lose.

A sturdy forged steel pruning shear meets the conditions of the average gardener. Cheap stamped shears, made frequently of thin gauge metal, are hard to handle and short-lived.

Spring and summer flowering shrubs should not be spring pruned. Their buds were formed last fall and any pruning now causes removal of these flowers. Wait until they have bloomed, then dead them in a trifle. Removing dead wood or branches not wanted is allowable at this time.

Pruners should avoid the pernicious habit of pruning back plants so that all branches are of equal length. Old wood which bloomed the year before should be thinned out or shortened. This permits the plants to remain graceful even when denuded of foliage. Shrubs so treated allow sunshine to reach every branch.

Hybrid tea roses often freeze badly. It is often necessary to cut out all wood which is the least bit browned. Never believe that there is so little snow left that it is best not to prune. The plants can be cut down to an inch high and fine flowers will follow. In fact, the more severe the pruning the better will be the flowering.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Any reliable voice instructor, or great singer, will tell you that voice quality and versatility is most dependent upon proper breathing. Those of you who have strident voices, voices which irritate instead of attract, will do well to practice deep breathing exercises every day.

In fact, most women could improve their voice tone and delivery by making such exercises part of their daily exercise program.

The morning, just after arising, is the best time to do these exercises—out in the open air if you can, or before an open window. No deep-breathing exercises should be practiced directly after a meal—three hours should elapse.

General Tonic (Exercise 1)

Vina Bovy, lovely coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, recommends these simple, easy to do breathing exercises. She, herself, has found them most beneficial.

Stand erect with both hands at your sides, head up, eyes looking forward.

(a) Exhale energetically, saying "ssss" between your teeth, to clear your lungs.

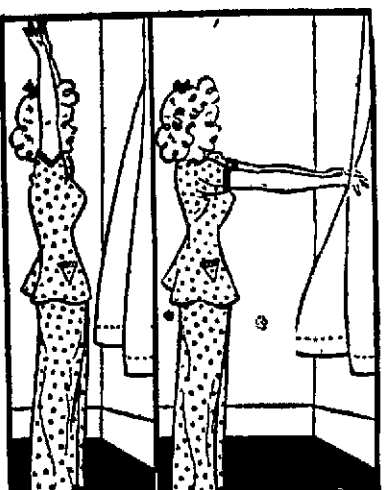

(b) Place your hands on your hips. Inhale a complete breath moderately fast; hold for a few seconds; exhale slowly saying "ssssss." Keep the chest high as long as possible and do not let it sink until the last part of the breath is let out of your lungs.

(c) Take several cleansing breaths, and repeat (a) and (b) several times. This has a very definite tonic effect. It pepes you up immediately.

For Greater Lung Capacity

Stand in good posture, with arms at sides.

(a) Exhale energetically, saying "ssssss" between the teeth to clear your lungs again.

(b) Inhale very deeply and moderately fast, lifting the arms or sit glabovetwipzup pty two or three seconds and then exhale "ssssssss" slowly, and bring the arms to a horizontal position in front of the body.

(c) Then drop the arms to the side, at the end of the breath.

(d) Take several cleansing breaths, and pause before repeating the exercise again. Repeat several times.

Important

Care should be taken that the back is kept straight during the above two exercises. Most persons do not use, as a rule, more than two-thirds of their full lung capacity. These exercises tend to force the fresh air down into the lower parts of the lungs and thus tap an unused source of energy for which your body is grateful.

Additional Breathing Exercises may be had upon request if you write for them care of this paper and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

Encourage Children to Do Their Level Best Each Day

BY ANGELO PATRI

We have a besetting habit of trying to do tomorrow, next year, in the coming generation's day—any time but our time today. And we push that idea into our relationships with children. We are not content with teaching them to do their day's work, we must try to pitch that work so it will serve twenty-five years from now. We cannot do this and we grieve about it and call our efforts wasted.

A child sat weaving a rug. She was absorbed in her task and the pattern that unfolded behind her fingers was a lovely thing. The expression of the child's face, the satisfaction expressed in her whole being was delightful. "How happy she is. What lovely work," said the visiting educator. Then his face clouded. "What good will that do her educationally?"

By educationally he meant financially, in terms of material success. What would this child do with her gift for weaving? Earn her living? If not then she was wasting time and we with her. That is nonsense.

A child lives today. This day holds all of life for him, all he can feel and do and be lies in this span. In this day he is a person, living his life, enjoying it or bewailing it or just suffering it. As he lives out this day he adds something of quality to his power of living and that power affects the next day.

Each day at dawn the child is born anew. He is a different child from the one who laid down his work and went to bed the night before. That other child will never come again, he went with the setting of the sun. This new one has within him the powers and weaknesses, the delights and the sorrows of that bygone child.

It is our duty, it is our privilege to help this child live out this day to his advantage. But we cannot go beyond this day or beyond this child as he is today in that effort. What we can do to make this day happy and profitable for him we do, but trying to pitch it so as to serve some fancied end is waste at both ends.

If we encourage a child to do his best each day with what life offers him, we do well. We enable him to store up power and quality of mind and character. During the process he will acquire skills, tastes, habits that are going to be useful to him in the days that follow. Day unto day adds glory! But we have always to remember that this child is living his life today and it is in this day that he makes good at his level of ability. If he goes well, if he is happy, he is growing and we need not try to bend that growth to serve a distant goal.

Parents are anxious about teaching children trades and crafts and professions so they may be able to sustain themselves. That is right. But in order that this child be fit and able to learn these good ways of life he must be allowed to live each day at his best, doing joyfully what he can do. It is in that way he grows the power, builds the character that is to make him the successful worker in time to come.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

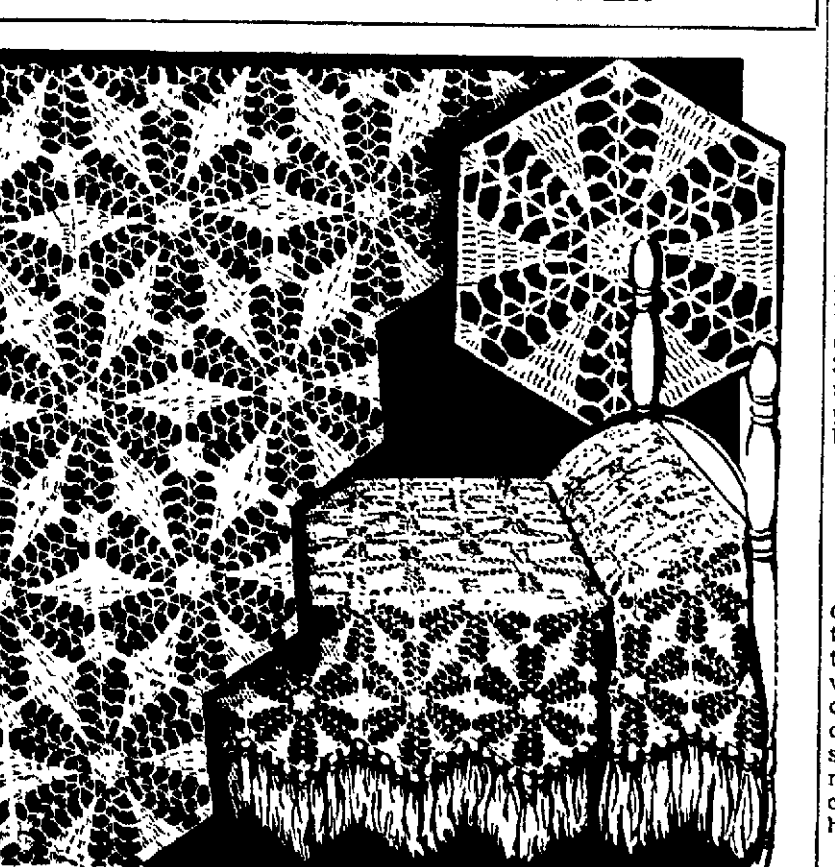

My Neighbor Says—

Top baked sliced ham with mixture of one cup of brown sugar, one teaspoon of powdered cloves, two teaspoons of dry mustard and half a cup of vinegar. Spread the mixture on top of the ham just before you put it into the oven.

Canned vegetables or soups that are to be served strained for babies or invalids will pass through the strainer more easily if they are heated first. They will, of course, require reheating when they are served.

Moon flowers, open early in the morning and close up in the sun. On cloudy days they will remain open longer, but on an ordinary sunny day they open in the late afternoon.

Diplomacy, Patience Needed To be Good Daughter-in-Law

BY DOROTHY DIX

A young woman who is going to be married asks if I will give her some suggestions about how to be a good daughter-in-law. Well, of course, being a good daughter-in-law requires a bit of doing, as the English say, because it calls for all the major and minor virtues, the self-abnegation of a saint and a diplomacy slick enough to run the League of Nations without friction. And, alas, youth seldom possesses these qualifications. If a woman could wait to be a daughter-in-law until she is 60 or 70 years old and had had a lot of experience in meeting difficult situations and gained a lot of wisdom about managing people she would be able to cope with the daughter-in-law proposition. But, unfortunately, it is mainly undertaken by ignorant little flappers, so it is no wonder that they so often bungles the job. Nevertheless, the relationship between a young wife and her husband's mother can be made a crown of joy instead of a pain in the neck, and perhaps the following tips may help some bride to win her mother-in-law's affection.

Play safe. Get off to a good start. Don't go to live with your mother-in-law if you can possibly help it. That will save both of you from getting wounds that will never heal as long as you live. Two women who love the same man have to be pin-feathered angels and above all human weaknesses to live together in the same house without getting on each other's nerves. Absence makes the heart grow fonder of our in-laws, and the more we live apart the better we get along with them.

Don't go into your husband's family with a chip on your shoulder. Don't regard your mother-in-law as your hereditary foe whom you are bound to hate at sight and whose every word and act you view with suspicion. On the contrary, make up your mind that you are going to be friends with her and make as great an effort to win her as you did to win her son. Show her affection. If you will be even human to her, she will be ready to kiss your feet in sheer gratitude.

Don't try to separate your husband from his mother. Don't be jealous of his affection for her. Don't flaunt his love for you in her face. Don't act as if every time he went to see her he was being unfaithful to you. Don't get peeved every time he has a private conversation with her or gives her a few dollars or shows her any attention. There is nothing for which a man is so grateful as for his wife being good to his mother. And don't forget that you can have no better ally than your mother-in-law in any argument with your husband.

Don't get humpy every time your mother-in-law makes any suggestion to you. You can learn a lot from her. She may not have a college diploma as you have, but she has acquired a wisdom that the schools don't teach in a half century or more of living. She may not be up on the latest fads in child culture, but she has raised half a dozen children to fine man and womanhood. She has never studied domestic science, but she is a wizard with the pots and pans that you will never be. It will pay you to sit at her feet and listen to her advice instead of snubbing her and hating her for interfering with your affairs.

Treat your mother-in-law as you do your own mother. Confide in her. Tell her your hopes, and plans. Go to her with your sorrows and joys. Urge her to visit you. Make her feel that the grandchildren are hers. That is the way you do to your own mother. Don't push your husband's mother outside of your family circle. You have no idea how she yearns to be within it and how it breaks her heart to see her daughter-in-law building up a wall between her son and his children and her.

Be grateful and show her that you consider her your greatest benefactor. It takes a lot of suffering, a lot of work, a lot of anxiety to turn a boy into a good husband and the wife who gets him should be down on her knees before his mother thanking her for the greatest favor that one woman can do for another.

Be tender. Be gentle and patient with her because it is very difficult to be old and lonely and to have to live in other people's houses and to be left desolate after all of your children have gone away from you. The woman who still has youth and love and a husband and children and is mistress of her own home should out of her wealth be generous to her mother-in-law after her husband is dead, her home broken up and her children so busy with their own lives that they half forgot Mother.

Be a good wife. Make your husband happy and his mother will love you for it. Don't work him hard with your extravagances. Don't poison him with bad cooking. Don't terrorize him by your nagging. His mother won't think you foolish when you baby her son and fuss over him as she used to do. She will just thank God he was lucky enough to get you for a wife.

Just do these things to your mother-in-law and she will boast of you to the market place. For to possess a kind and loving daughter-in-law is as much of a distinction as it is to own a string of matched pearls, and a lot rarer.

OVEN DINNER

Oven baked meats are an invaluable aid to the busy housewife who has little time to spend in preparing the family dinner. They need very little watching, and the cook is free to attend to other duties.

Food cooked in this way can be kept warm and attractive if the meal is delayed, without any loss of the important meat and vegetable juices.

Casserole dishes are especially convenient time-savers since they eliminate the use of extra pots and pans.

Here is an oven dinner menu to have on hand for extra days.

THE MENU

Veal Kidney Chops

Mashed Potatoes

String Beans au Gratin

Orange-Avocado Salad

Whole Wheat Bread

Prune Rice Pudding

Whipped Cream

2 tablespoons shortening

Flour

4 kidney veal chops

1 cup cream

Salt and pepper

1 egg

Melt shortening, dip chops in flour, season lightly with salt and pepper. Fry slowly for 20 minutes turning to brown evenly. Add cream and bake in a moderate oven 325 degrees F. about 40 minutes or until tender. Just before serving, pour sauce from pan slowly onto beaten egg and serve over chops.

String Beans au Gratin

1 can small stringless beans

1/2 cup grated cheese

6 tablespoons heavy cream

Grated Parmesan cheese

Drain the beans well and place on a clean cloth to absorb all moisture. When well dried put half of them into a baking dish, season with salt sprinkle with grated cheese and pour over 3 tablespoons cream. Add the remaining beans season sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and add remaining cream. Place in moderate oven to heat and brown.

Prune Rice Pudding

1 egg

1/2 cup light brown sugar

1 tablespoon melted butter

1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon vanilla

1 cup prune juice (unsweetened)

3 cups boiled rice

Beat egg slightly, add sugar, salt, vanilla, butter and prune juice. Pour this mixture over boiled rice which has been placed in greased baking dish. Bake in moderate oven

STEMS DOWN

Women continue to ask me why I think flowers should be worn with stems down rather than with stems up. First of all, let me underscore the word "think." There is no rule further than my (or your) opinion as to how particular flowers look best on a particular dress.

The reason why flowers are likely to look best with stems down is that they grow that way. With their heads hanging down and their stems sticking up in the air, roses for example look as though they had fallen down and were crying for help. Violets look exactly as any flowers would if put in a glass bowl with their stems sticking out at the top.

Orchids and set corsage arrangements, I agree, can be turned around to best fit a particular dress. But as a general rule of safety, the way they grow looks best. And they don't grow with heads in the ground and stems up.

An Evening Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: We want to be married about nine o'clock in the evening, then go to the hotel for the reception, have dancing first, then serve cocktails and canapés and later on, a sit-down supper with champagne. The hotel manager tells me it is incorrect to have a wedding so late in the evening and that the collation should follow the reception immediately. He suggests the wedding at eight, with dinner following. Will you explain about this.

Answer: A wedding at nine o'clock in the evening is just as proper, according to etiquette, as eight o'clock, and there is no need for a dinner afterward. In fact, nine o'clock allows every one to have dinner comfortably at home and then go to the wedding. The idea of cocktails at a wedding, however, seems to me very inappropriate. I were you I would arrange to have my guests dance while I was still receiving. Then you also dance a while and then have supper. But if

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Cast records of Psycholo Fri., M 29

As a rule, wallflowers don't suddenly develop after adulthood. They begin growing far back in childhood. I have seen perfect examples of wallflowers at the age of three, when mollycoddled youngsters enter a nursery school. Make sure that you avoid the difficulty besetting Jimmy.

CASE Q-123: Jimmy F., aged 7, is a healthy youngster.

"But he will not play with boys," his father protested, "for he says he is afraid they will beat him up, or else that they don't like him."

"He refuses to go out to play at recess, and if he does leave the school building, he stands on the sidelines or else plays with girls."

"He seems like a regular fellow, though, and likes boys games. If I take him along on a fishing trip with me, he thinks he has a great time, but he shuns those of his age."

"Though we have a dozen youngsters in the neighborhood, he stays in his own yard. If the other children come into his yard, he hurries into the house."

"Dr. Crane, he is an only child, so we'd like to have him play with children. How would you advise us to handle this problem?"

DIAGNOSIS:

Jimmy has a social inferiority complex, and might properly be labelled a wallflower, though he is only seven years old.

Day before yesterday I described Alice, aged 26, who was a similar case at a later stage.

When a child or an adult cannot cope successfully with his environment, he wants to run away. This flight may be an actual running into the house, or, as in Alice's case, it may involve an escape into an imaginary realm of dream and phantasy romancing.

Menasha — William Grode won the ping-pong championship of Menasha Junior High school this week when he defeated Richard Jepson in straight games, 21 to 6, 21 to 10. In the semifinals Grode beat Frank Heckrodt, also in two straight by scores of 21 to 11 and 21 to 9. Jepson advanced to the finals by defeating Jack Pinkerton in two out of three games. The scores were 19 to 21, 21 to 13, and 21 to 18.

Kennel Club to Conduct Series Of Field Trials

Members Hear Talks on Mechanics of Event, Training Methods

Neenah — The mechanics of field trials for dogs were described by A. M. Schlesinger, president of the Wisconsin Amateur Field Trial club, and Charles (Chuck) Morgan, professional trainer, described training methods at the meeting of the Neenah Kennel club last night at the new recreation building.

About 50 dog owners attended the meeting, the first sponsored by the club which dealt with sporting dogs. It was reported that the session showed enough interest exists to warrant running a spring trial.

As the result of the program, a field trial committee meeting was held following the regular session, and plans for a series of these events were mapped. The first was set tentatively for May 18 and 19.

In his talk, Morgan stressed patience in training dogs. He related a series of interesting incidents concerning sporting dogs.

He told about a retriever that insisted upon carrying its pups or those of others dogs to the middle of a pond where they were given swimming lessons by being forced to swim ashore.

5 Boxers Capture Junior High Titles

Kuester, Heckrodt, Block, Swamp, Porto are Champions

Menasha — Boxing champions in five weight divisions have been determined in the Menasha Junior High school tournament. Final bouts were completed Thursday afternoon.

Harvey Kuester took the championship in the heavyweight 135-pound division. Kuester founded Sam Gartzke around the ring for two rounds to pile up an impressive margin before the bout was stopped.

Frank Heckrodt had too much speed for Duane Gear in the 125-pound class and took an easy decision. Heckrodt's left-handed style bothered Gear throughout the bout. Lawrence Block swarmed all over Richard Rinehart, flailing away with right and left-hand blows. Rinehart fought a defensive battle after the first round, and Block took the decision and the championship in the 105-pound class.

Howard Swamp won the 90-pound championship. He showed great defensive ability and landed several lefts in an extra round to take a decision in the closest bout of the tournament from Tom Bohmke. Bohmke showed a lot of ability too and defeated James Moran in a previous bout.

Robert Porto won the championship from Alfred Voelker in the 75-pound class. The bout was a wild-swinging match with Porto showing the more aggressive spirit.

At the chapter meeting in the Neenah Masonic temple next Wednesday night further degree work will be conducted for three candidates who already have received the initiatory degree.

Mayor, Council Will Act on New Board Selections

Jensen Receives List of Nominees From Republican Party

Menasha — Appointment of Republican election officials will be considered at a special meeting of the Menasha council at 7:30 tonight at the city hall. Mayor W. H. Jensen has received a new list of nominees from the Winnebago county Republican party for the election posts and will make his nominations at the meeting tonight. The nominations must be confirmed by the council in order to become effective.

All former election board officials were renominated by Mayor W. H. Jensen and approved by the council at the Feb. 6 meeting. The only exceptions were where new men were appointed to fill vacancies caused by death.

At an adjourned meeting of the council last Thursday night Mayor Jensen declared that he had received a list of officials from the Republican party but the list was not received by Jan. 15, the deadline set by state statute. However, he did nominate men from the list but the council unanimously refused to confirm the appointments.

No Debate in 2 Wards Under state law, the majority party has the right to submit a list of names from which the mayor shall nominate three of the five members of the election board in each ward. There was no argument over the boards in the First and Fourth wards where there are three Republicans serving.

Mayor Jensen was summoned to Oshkosh last Saturday to show cause why he did not appoint from the list submitted by the Republicans. However, Lewis C. Magnuson, who acted as attorney for the Republican party, moved for summary dismissal of the writ.

Several county Republican leaders are expected to attend the meeting tonight. Election board appointments are made for two years.

Girl Reserves to Discuss Plans for State Conference

Committee Will Meet at Twin City Y.W.C.A. Saturday

Neenah — The possibility of a conference camp in June for Girl Reserve leaders and advisers from all over Wisconsin will be discussed at a planning committee meeting at 11 o'clock Saturday morning in the Twin City Y. W. C. A. The Neenah-Menasha Y. W. C. A. Girl Reserve department, the Green Bay and Wausau Girl Reserve units are instigators of the tentative plans for the conference.

Miss Beulah Shinn, general chairman for the planning committee, and Girl Reserve secretary of the Twin City Y. W. C. A. together with the Green Bay and Wausau leaders, drafted a questionnaire in February, outlined the program for such a conference, and asked various groups throughout the state for their reactions. The conference would be for Girl Reserves who are leaders in their clubs, preferably those who are to be in senior high school during the 1940-41 term, and for club advisers. Opening in June, the camp will be for about five days and a possible place would be White Gables at Green Bay.

Letters Circulated The letters were sent to clubs in Kenosha, Park Falls, Rhinelander, Sparta, Virgo, Edgerton, Cambria, Neillsville, Madison, Racine, Janesville, Beloit, LaCrosse, Milwaukee and Waukegan.

It is not known how many will attend the planning committee Saturday but representatives such as the committee chairman, secretary, adviser and two Girl Reserves from each department are expected. Final plans for such a conference will be outlined at the meeting Saturday should approval be given by the various representatives from Wisconsin cities.

Mrs. J. D. Page, Girl Reserve committee chairman, Miss Shinn, and Betty Nelson, Oral Jane Jenkins, Doris Kuehnbecker, Margaret Olsen and Luella Wendt will present Neenah.

Troop 14 Scouts Given Awards at Court of Honor

Karl Loescher Receives 11 Merit Badges, Star Ranking

Menasha—Three boys received tenderfoot pins while others were advanced in rank and received merit badges at a rally and court of honor for scouts of Troop 14, sponsored by the First Congregational church, Thursday night. Over 60 parents, friends, committeemen and scouts attended the bean feed which preceded the court of honor.

Tenderfoot pins were awarded to Edward Moon, Rodney Petersen and Thomas Heardon, Jr. by their mothers. Richard Gaertner received a second class award from the Rev. Gerald C. Churchill. Teddy Elliott received a first class emblem from his mother.

Karl Loescher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Loescher, Broad street, received 11 merit badges. Clarence Loescher made the presentation. The badges included public health, pathfinding, electricity, bird study, safety, book binding, first aid, cooking, chemistry, photography, and reading.

Gets Star Scout Pin
After receiving the merit badge awards Karl was presented with a star scout pin by his parents.

Paul Friedland received merit badges for metal work, pathfinding, and firemanship while Waldo Friedland, Jr., received emblems in pathfinding, photography, and electricity from their parents.

William Gear received a handicraft merit badge from Harold Smith and Hugh Geibel, Jr., received awards for swimming and firemanship from his mother.

Harold Smith, chairman of the troop committee, opened the court of honor. Norman Trosen, scoutmaster, reported that the troop has shown steady improvement. Smith reviewed the activities of the troop committee. He said that 29 boys are members of the troop and pointed out that Troop 14 is the oldest in the valley council.

Introduce Others
In his closing remarks, Mr. Trosen introduced the other leaders and commended Hugh Sutton on his cooperation in test passing. Mr. Sutton has charge of advancement. Closing of the meeting was conducted by Arthur Peterson, assistant scoutmaster.

The court of honor arrangements were made by Oscar Peterson, W. C. Friedland, and the Rev. G. C. Churchill. Members of the troop committee are Harold Smith, Oscar Peterson, Herbert Heller, the Rev. G. C. Churchill, Hugh Geibel, John Michie, Hugh Sutton, Karl Klopfeil and Roy Hoffman.

Garden Club Will Hold Open Session

Magazine Editor to be Speaker at Menasha Tuesday Evening

Menasha—The Menasha Garden club will have its first open meeting of the spring season at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, April 2, at the Menasha Elks Club. The speaker will be Mr. J. J. Rahmlov, editor of the Wisconsin Horticultural magazine.

Mr. Rahmlov will discuss new things in gardening such as the value of vitamin E, and will show colored lantern slides of the newest varieties of perennials and annuals.

The Menasha Garden club has invited members of the Neenah Garden club and interested gardeners of the Twin Cities to the meeting next Tuesday evening.

Club members plan to entertain Mr. Rahmlov at a 6 o'clock dinner Tuesday evening in Hotel Menasha. Reservations can be made with Mrs. C. J. Campbell, club secretary.

Farmers Fail to Earn Maximum Soil Benefits

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
Oshkosh—Winnebago county farmers last year failed by $4,741 to earn their maximum soil building payments, Otto H. Miller, secretary of the county Agricultural Conservation committee, declared here yesterday.

Approximately $41,000 is available to county farmers for aid in carrying out soil building practices this year. Mr. Miller pointed out that most of the county soil is deficient in lime and phosphate and that the farmers should overcome this by using the money in liming and fertilizing.

The payments available for seedling alfalfa, clover and timothy have been cut in half this year, necessitating increased use in liming and fertilizing and forestry practices to earn the required credits. Other soil building practices that can be used, he mentioned, are strip cropping, terrace construction, tree planting, and contour planting and cultivation.

Mrs. Theodore Suess Elected Head of St. Mary's W.C.O.F.

Menasha—Mrs. Theodore Suess was named chief ranger of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, St. Mary's court, at the Thursday evening meeting in the school hall. Mrs. Henry Wilmot was named vice chief ranger. Mrs. C. H. Murphy, recording secretary; Mrs. Josephine Tratz, financial secretary; Mrs. Anna Eckrich, treasurer; Mrs. H. Muehlenbein, Mrs. Mary Brehm and Mrs. Elizabeth Howe, trustees; Miss Cecelia and Miss Emma Liebhauser, conductors; Miss Anna Smith, outside sentinel; Mrs. Rose Smith, inside sentinel; Miss Dorothy Stalk, pianist; Dr. George Yorkin, medical examiner and Miss Rose Pack, installing officer. A covered dish party at 6 o'clock preceding the installation April 25 was planned. Members will be allowed to invite a friend.

Forty-six tables were in play in St. John's school hall Thursday evening as the women of the parish entertained at a card party. Frank Kalinowski, Mrs. George Miller, Louis Pavaloske, H. Trader, H. Goldner and Joseph Skalmoske won the prizes in schafkopf, Mrs. Peter Waskiewicz, Mrs. Ed Konetzki, Mrs. Philip Michalekiewicz, Ray Jakubek and Helen Pakalske, in rummy. Mrs. Adolph Teitz and Mrs. Marcella Collins were whist winners and Mrs. George Lenz received honors in bridge.

The older girls of the Piano Study club met at the studio of Miss Dorothy Gemmel Thursday evening to form a club of their own which is to be called the "Wagnerian Club." Operas will be studied and the first one to be discussed will be "Hansel and Gretel." After the business meeting, games were played with prizes going to Edith Elstad, Lillian Strey, Dolores Jarvey, Dolores Malchow and Marjane Rodgers.

Plans were made to attend the golden jubilee celebration and luncheon of the H. J. Lewis Woman's Relief corps of Neenah April 10 and for a Sunshine Club meeting April 4 at the home of Mrs. Nellie Strong, Nicolet boulevard, as the J. P. Shepard Woman's Relief corps met Thursday afternoon in St. A. Cook armory. The birthday committee was in charge during the social hour.

The Piano Study club will meet this evening in the studio of Miss Dorothy Gemmel, Walnut street, to study composers as Louis Ann Mielke reads a story on the life of Johann Sebastian Bach. Romana Nelson and Rae Joan Grundman will be hostesses.

Miss Audrey Stroetz, sophomore student at Milwaukee Downer college in Milwaukee, is expected to arrive in Menasha this evening to spend the spring vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stroetz, 410 Elm street.

BLOOD RUNS COLD

By Ann Demarest

This new development, or rather repetition, left me pretty limp. I locked the paper in my desk drawer and sat down by the fireplace. I just sat there, without moving or even doing much thinking, until I heard Sarah in the hall, sweeping. I got up and unlocked the door and asked her to come in.

"Who has keys to these apartments besides you?" I asked her as she stepped reluctantly inside the door, a sullen expression on her face.

She stared at me. "No one," she said, leaning on her broom. "Are you sure?"

"Mr. Kimball gives you a key when you take the apartment," she said, "but he never keeps one for himself. I know I heard him say often he ought to, what with people losing them all the time."

"Then no one but you can get into my apartment?"

She gave me a very strange look and pushed her hair back nervously with a raw-boned hand. "Why?" She hesitated. "Did someone try to get in?"

"They didn't try," I said, thinking I might be able to scare something out of her. "They got in."

"Oh, Mrs. Howarth!" She paled and turned away. "I let that pass."

"Then—then someone found them," she muttered. "I stepped forward and took her by the shoulder before she could walk out of the door. 'Found what?' 'I lost them,' she was half crying. 'I lost my set the day you moved in, but I had another at home. I had them made up a long while ago. I told my mother, 'Some day I'll lose those keys,' I said, 'then where will I be?'"

"She shook her head. 'Then whoever found those keys could get into my apartment or any apartment in this house.' 'I couldn't help it,' she sniveled. 'They just seemed to disappear. One minute they were in my pocket and the next minute gone.' 'What were you doing in Miss Kent's apartment this morning?' She looked at me, half frightened. 'We was looking. Mrs. Evans' husband...'"

"Oh, help," I said, and she turned and ran out of the room. Sarah's losing the keys was the last straw. Locked in an apartment one might be more or less secure, but with those keys at large there wasn't a safe place in the whole house.

I hadn't much time to worry, though, because Sarah had scarcely disappeared with her broom when Sergeant Long came upstairs, still limping and not improved as to temper. He came in and took the wing chair by the fireplace and lighted a cigar.

"That fellow Lathrop," he began without any preamble, "is just about as satisfactory as the rest of you. I saw him again this morning, hoping that after a night's sleep, his memory might improve. Did it? No. He knows nothing, absolutely nothing."

I regarded the Sergeant, puzzled. I took for granted that he considered the case closed.

Minister Executed as Slayer of Daughter
Trenton, N. J.—(P)—The Rev. Walter Dworecki, 43-year-old Polish Baptist minister and first clergyman to be executed in New Jersey's electric chair, walked to his death last night, mumbling "Holy Father, save my soul."

The Camden pastor, condemned for scheming the strangulation murder of his daughter Wanda, 18, so he could collect her life insurance, was pronounced dead six minutes after he entered the tiny death chamber preceded by a chaplain.

Dworecki was convicted Oct. 5 of hiring Peter Shewchuk, 21-year-old circus roustabout and former boarder in the Dworecki home, for a small fee to kill the girl so the father could collect between $5,000 and $6,000 insurance.

Her body was found early on the morning of Aug. 8, 1939, in a rain-soaked weed patch.

Shewchuk, indicted for murder, is to be tried next month.

Four Cars Damaged In Two Collisions On Menasha Streets

Menasha—Four cars were damaged in two collisions reported by Police Chief Alex Slomski this morning.

Automobiles driven by F. G. Wheeler, 810 E. College avenue, Appleton, and William Dorow, 283 Tayco street, Menasha, collided on the city triangle at 9:05 this morning. Wheeler was driving west on Main street and Dorow swung around the island in the center of the triangle and was making a left turn to go east on Main street when the accident occurred, it was reported.

The entire front end of the Wheeler car was damaged while the front end and left fender of the Dorow car were damaged.

Cars driven by Jack Quayle, 303 Hewitt street, Neenah, and Alfreid Zelinski, 736 Appleton street, Menasha, collided at the intersection of Broad and Racine streets at 8:10 Thursday night.

According to the police report, Quayle was traveling east on Broad street, stopped for the arterial sign, and then pulled across the intersection when his car collided with the Zelinski machine which was being driven north on Racine street. The right rear fender of the Quayle car was damaged.

Louis Expects Easy Victory

But There are a Few Who Opine That Paychek May Surprise

BY SID FEDEE
NEW YORK.—(AP)—There's a reservation on the 11:45 p. m. train to Chicago tonight in the name of J. Louis.
The same J. Louis—the "J" stands for Joe—has a date to defend his heavyweight championship against Johnny Paychek of Des Moines at 10 o'clock this evening (9 p. m., C.S.T.) in Madison Square garden for the entertainment of some 15,000 customers and the benefit of the Fins.
There were few boys and girls—if you could find any at all—willing to wager against Louis making his train connection. Yet there was

HOW THEY COMPARE
New York (AP)—The tale of the tape on Joe Louis and Johnny Paychek for their 15-round heavyweight championship fight tonight:

	Louis	Paychek
25 years	25 years	25 years
200 pounds	190 pounds	190 pounds
6 ft. 11 in.	6 ft. 4 in.	6 ft. 4 in.
76 inches	75 inches	75 inches
41 inches	40 inches	40 inches
164 inches	164 inches	164 inches
14 inches	14 inches	14 inches
12 inches	12 inches	12 inches
8 inches	7 inches	7 inches
112 inches	114 inches	114 inches
22 inches	23 inches	23 inches
15 inches	15 inches	15 inches
10 inches	10 inches	10 inches

a growing belief among the inner circles along cauliflower causeway in the last 24 hours that maybe the corn country contender might make enough trouble and delay the bomber enough to force him to cancel his participation.
Mind you, only Johnny's best friends were telling him he had a chance to actually dethrone the deadpan destroyer in this tenth defense in his record-breaking run as fistiana's "Mr. Big." But you picked up the word around and about that while Johnny is short on hair, he has enough speed, boxing ability and gunpower in his right hand to say his piece and say it well.
Then there was the showing of Louis in his most recent outings, 15 futile rounds with Arturo Godoy last month and 11 with Bob Pastor last fall.

Fins Get 10 Per Cent
Promoter Mike Jacobs figures the thing will pay as well as the Godoy-Louis festivities Feb. 10, which drew less than $2,000 short of $90,000. Whatever the total take this time, the Finnish relief fund cuts in for ten per cent of the gross—"off the top" as the box office men have it.
Then Louis, who draws down his usual 40 per cent, is going to turn over 7 1/2 per cent of that and Paychek will donate 2 1/2 per cent of his 20 per cent purse.

Louis, scaling approximately 202, will have a 12-pound pull in the weights when the state athletic commission checks them in during the day, and that, on top of everything else, makes this corner's choice to sing Johnny to sleep with his hands in no more than four rounds.

From there, unless Paychek pulls one out of the hat—a la Jim Braddock—it looks now like Louis will go on to two more fights this year, the next in July. There has been talk he may cut his vacation short and tussle with some one in June, possibly pretty boy Billy Conn, but that's up to Mike Jacobs.

The proceedings go on the air via the NBC-WJZ blue network at 9 p. m. (C.S.T.).

Cape Is Honorary Captain of Vike Cagers for 1939-40

Announcement Made at Last Night's Annual Award Dinner

WELLINGTON "WALLIE" CAPE, Appleton, senior forward, was named honorary captain of the Lawrence college basketball team of 1939-40, it was announced last night at the annual winter sports award dinner.
The dinner was held at Brokaw hall and the program was arranged by the Fox Valley Lawrence Men's club.
Seven members of the Vike varsity squad were awarded letters by Coach A. C. Denney who reviewed the season and praised the men as a loyal team which was best against the strongest clubs in the conference.

The awards went to seniors Bob Smith, Ken Buesing, Bill Masterson and Cape; junior Art Schade; and sophomores Jarvis Lingle and Don Fredrickson. A senior manager's award went to George Burrows.

Freshman basketball awards went to Ben Ewers, Wesley Morris and Warren Buesing of Appleton, Boyden Supiano, Harry Henkes, Bill Cressett, Phil Knell, Bill Harvey, Jim Slauson, Bob Sullivan, Bob Olsen, and Jim Fleweger of Kimberly, and managers' awards to M. Promer, J. Gregg, C. Ziegler of Appleton, and R. Nystrom. Bill Cressett was announced as honorary captain of the team. Coach Adlon also announced an award to Miles Hench, free style swimmer, who also will captain next year's team, and to swimming manager Howard O'Donnell. Freshman swimming awards went to Evan Turley, Tom Hay, Wallie Patton and George Liebh.

Three wrestling awards were announced by Coach Bernie Heseltin. They went to Dave Spalding of Menasha, Bill Owen and Bill Diver. The evening's program was opened by Seymour Greiner, president of the men's club, who turned the meeting over to Dan Steinberg, Jr., as toastmaster. Don Hutson and Clarke Hinkle of the Green Bay Packers were the speakers.

Golf Leaders Will Clash in Tourney

Leading Money Winners To Compete in 'Land of the Sky' Meet

Asheville, N. C.—(AP)—The champion and the challenger of golf's winter circuit come together here today for the first time since their paths separated in Florida a few weeks ago.
At that time Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex., the champion, was so far out front in cash returns from his tournament play that it seemed there'd be no catching him. Since then, two tournaments have been played, and Jimmy not in either of them, and Ben Hogan, the challenger, has made most of these opportunities.
Demaret and Hogan were paired together for today's opening round of the $5,000 "Land of the Sky" tournament. Fred Corcoran, the P. G. A. tournament bureau manager, figured that would be a fine opportunity for the boys to test themselves out for the customers to see the two hottest guys on the links this season.

Behind Demaret with $6,152, and Hogan with $5,238, the top money winners are:
Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., $3,683; Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, N. Y., runner-up at Greensboro, $3,408; Horton Smith, Chicopee, Mass., $2,777; Clayton Heafner, Linville, N. C., and Sam Snead, Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., $2,706; Lawson Little, Bretton Woods, N. H., $2,517; Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., $2,331; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., $2,250.

Hockey Playoffs are Featured by Upsets And Call for Cops

By the Associated Press
Canny Lester Patrick of the New York Rangers has said all along that his team's cup play series with the Boston Bruins would go only six games—and it looks now as though he knew exactly whereof he spoke.

For the Rangers, in a surprising return to the form that made them the most-talked-about team in the National Hockey League this year, practically clinched their place in the final round of the Stanley cup playoffs by beating the Boston Bruins, 1-0, last night in the Boston Garden.
Meanwhile, the tough Toronto Maple Leafs came through to the cup finals for the third successive year in a bloody, punch-packed, stick-swinging battle with the Detroit Red Wings. The Toronto won, 3-1, in a game that thrice saw players fight with their fists and a police riot squad come in to make peace. Seventeen players were fined $25 apiece for swarming from their benches out on the ice in the closing minutes.

ROLLS PERFECT GAME
Milwaukee.—(AP)—Ted Halmie, a third-year bowler with a 160 average, rolled a perfect game last night. He opened his series with a 164 and had a 144 and wound up with 12 strikes for his 300 count.

Chaffin Chatter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

LAWRENCE COLLEGE held its annual winter sports award dinner last night at Brokaw with Don Hutson, end, and Clarke Hinkle, fullback, of the Green Bay Packers, as the principal after dinner attraction. They stood up for an hour while the collegians and others fired questions—and Hutson scored as often as on the gridiron and Hinkle crashed through for numerous gains. In the words of the boys on the weekly sheets, a good time was had by all. And here are a few jottings:
The two veterans like the men the Packers picked up in the draft but admitted a lot of the boys lose considerable weight and ability on the train trying to reach Green Bay. . . . There are many good passers in pro ball but Herber is the best on long passes. . . . Whizzer White was everything he was credited with being. . . . And he liked the Packers because they were one team that played football against him and didn't attempt to get him out of the picture as soon as possible.

Hinkle's all-time, all-star pro team would have Nagurski, Battles, Isbell and Clark in the backfield; the line would have George Svendsen at center, Comstock and Michalske at the guards, Cal Hubbard and Lyman at the tackles, and Hutson, Tinsley, Nash and Dilweg as the ends. . . . And of course, the coach would be Lambeau. . . . The Packers have no first team. . . . They have a passing team and a running team and sometimes they are mixed up. . . . The best team or the best players on a certain day are the "hot" ones, which means that some days a man may be good and other days not so good. . . . Against the Giants, in the championship game, the Packers were "hot." They had pointed for the game for a year—a year starting with their defeat in the Polo Grounds the previous fall when they felt the officiating had been bad. . . . Lambeau didn't point them for the game unless it was by keeping them on one hotel floor and to themselves so much that the last few days they were so tired of looking at each other's mug they were ready to do anything. . . .

Hutson was a diplomat when asked about Obbie Novakofski's chances in the pro league; Hinkle wasn't and said he felt Obbie was too light and small for halfback duty. . . . Dave O'Brien small, too? . . . Yes, but O'Brien was principally a passer. . . .

The Packers already are pointing for that college all-star game next summer in Chicago. . . . And Lambeau never loses a game he really points for. . . . The pros would like to play the game later in the season for they don't get into condition so readily. . . . Pro all-star teams always have been easy for the Packers and so would the college all-stars if it wasn't for getting into shape in so short a time.
Pro gridders have it over college teams because football is an all-day job whereas the college teams practice 1 to 2 hours a day and college gridders have other things to think about, studies, jobs, etc. . . . Also, the pros are more mature physically.

Fines are greatest fear of pro gridders. . . . They like that dollar bill. . . . The vets aren't hard on rookies but they don't accept them until they've proven themselves. . . . There's more spirit on a pro team than in college. . . . Yet some fans will say they don't try to win. . . . Hutson recalled a 21-21 game on the coast with the Bears which was the first of two in two weeks. . . . Two coast scribes said it was "sarrked" yet Herber had his nose broken in three places, Johnny Sick of the Bears had a compound fracture of a finger and there were several other severe injuries.
Pro league football has progressed faster than pro league officiating and something must be done. . . . The two men don't like night games because bumps are noticed more and last longer, the ball usually is wet from the grass and it's harder to see under lights.

GREEN BAY
REYNOLD MAUIHE
Van Thull Bakers of Kimberly got off on the right foot in the Northeastern basketball tournament at the Y.M.C.A. Thursday night by defeating the Old Line Life, Green Bay, by a 45 to 28 score. The high pressure salesmen gave Van Thulls a real battle in the first half, leading 9 to 7 at the quarter, and trailed at the half only 17 to 16.
But after the intermission, the insurance lads could not keep pace with their opponents who practically scored at will and garnered 20 points in the third quarter to five for the Bays. The smooth passing attack of Bowman to Hamann to Lilleg to their mates left Green Bay bewildered.
The Y.M.C.A. was filled with enthusiastic fans with about 100 cheering Van Thulls. And "the Baker" was well pleased with the result as evidenced by his big smile in congratulating his boys.
Straubel opened the scoring by sinking a charity. Hamann countered with a bucket but Green Bay came right back with four buckets of the long variety. Hofkins tipped a rebound and two gifts and the quarter ended 9 to 7 for Old Line Life.
Hamann of the Bakers tipped two buckets and a gift before Straubel coined a long shot. Van Dyke dove in to score and coined a charity a moment later. Roesser intercepted a Baker pass to score handsly for the Bays. Bowman slapped in a rebound and Van Dyke took Lilleg's hot pass to score. Olson got a gift and Carter a long looping shot with the half showing Van Thulls leading by a slim 17 to 16 score.

Bakers Get Going
Old Line Life's showed spunk in the first half matching the Bakers shot for shot. But the dough boys showed their superiority in the third quarter by ringing 20 points to the salesmen's 5. The passing and quick breaks for the hoop were wildered the Bays.
Bowman was hot in the second half scoring on passes from his mates. Lilleg played a great floor game having his share of the rebounds and passing nicely. Hofkins and Hamann also set up plays with their mates. The quarter ended with Kimberly away out in front, 37 to 21.
Manager Bowman used the entire team to warm it for Friday night's tilt with Oshkosh as the opponent. Hamann will not be with the team because he travels to Oconto Falls with his high school

Commission Finds Aides Didn't Act as Manager

MILWAUKEE.—(AP)—The state athletic commission says it has found no evidence that George Aides, former manager of Quentin (Baby Face) Breese, signed contracts for any of Breese's fights while Aides was under suspension in this state.
Aides was a visitor here earlier in the month when Breese lost to Sammy Angott. Afterwards, Breese was fined $200 and suspended for boxing squad. If Van Thulls can take the Sawdust city lads, they will enter the finals Saturday night.

the situation when the top or uppermost man applies a pinning hold and with this hold or combination of holds turns and places the defensive man on his back in such a position that the bottom man is very definitely in serious trouble and in such a position the hold is a difficult time breaking the hold or freeing himself to avoid being pinned. The three points are awarded only once for each such situation and they shall not be awarded till the crisis has passed or the bout ended by expiration of the time. "Time advantage" is defined as "Time when one wrestler is on top and in control of his opponent, or in other words, in the position of advantage."
Due to the fact that boys might abuse this rule by getting on top and merely hanging on to accumulate time advantage instead of wrestling aggressively and trying to win a fall, a rule was set up to penalize a boy for such an offense, as follows:
(a) Stalling from feet—offender to be put on bottom and opponent awarded two points. This rule is to be enforced when one boy gets ahead in points, and then while on his feet, backs away and refuses to wrestle or mix with his opponent.
(b) Stalling from below—offender to be left on the bottom but opponent awarded one point as often as the referee deems advisable till the bottom boy starts wrestling and makes an effort to escape. This penalty is to be enforced when a boy gets ahead in points, and then while on the bottom does not try to escape and seems satisfied to remain below the rest of the bout, with his points already accumulated sufficient to win the bout.
(c) Stalling from top—stand the boys up and award the offended boy, who was below, one point. This penalty is to be enforced when a boy is ahead on points and on top and merely hangs on to keep his position and thus his lead in points, and refuses to wrestle aggressively and try to win a fall.
Note: The Referee alone has authority to award points, and he shall call out the points as they are scored in a clear voice, as "two points for Army" or "one point for Navy." The scorekeepers who sit at the timer's table record the points only after they are called out by the Referee; tablets and pencils will be furnished at the table.
2. If both contestants have the same number of points at the end of the bout, the referee may declare the bout a draw and award each team one and one-half (1 1/2) points; or he may award one of the contestants one extra point for aggressiveness if he believes that wrestler to have shown sufficiently greater ability and skill and aggressiveness. If the referee awards the bout to either contestant in this way, the contestant indicated as the winner shall have two points awarded his team.

Brews Impress in Win Over Saints

Score Is 2 to 1; Makosky And Deshong are Winning Hurlers

LEESBURG, Fla.—(AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers showed mid-season form in nosing out their American association rivals, the St. Paul Saints, 2 to 1 yesterday.
Frank Makosky held the apostles to five hits and one run in five innings, and Jimmy De Shong permitted only one hit thereafter.

Eddie Morgan and Les Powers put together both the Brewer runs. In the first round, Morgan singled, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on Powers' single—his first base hit of the exhibition season. In the sixth, Morgan, who got three hits all told, singled again, went to second on a balk and counted on Powers' line single to right.
In contrast to their previously erratic play, the Brewers performed without error all field.

Menasha Cagers Are Defeated in Tourney Opener

Bow to St. Leo of Chicago After Holding Own To 4th Period

CHICAGO, Ill.—A last quarter drive by Leo high, Chicago, Catholic league champion, dropped St. Mary of Menasha from the championship round of the national Catholic basketball tournament Thursday afternoon, 43-29. The loss of Bill Resch on fouls with five minutes of play time remaining, broke the morale of the plucky Zephyrs five. From then on the contest was one-sided. Husky Farnham Johnson counted five field goals and three penalty tosses for the Wisconsin five while Stan Patrick, 1939 all-tourney selection, caged 19 points for the victors.

The Zephyrs opened up with an 8-point barrage on the bewildered Chicago five on baskets by Norm Griesbach, Johnson, Bill Resch and a long shot by Griesbach. St. Mary was in front 8-0 before Hunt dented the Leo scoring column. It was Johnson again, on a hook and followup, who pushed St. Mary's ahead 13-3 at the end of the first period.

The Leo machine started working shortly after the quarter started and pulled the Chicagoans within one point at half time. Resch made the score 18-8 on a pot shot and free throw while Patrick and Baranowski made the score 16 for the locals. The halftime score read 17-16 in favor of St. Mary.

The third period opened with a scoring duel, giving the Zephyrs a slight edge as Stan Patrick rang up three for the Lions and Johnson caged the same number from far out, keeping the Wisconsin five in front by a 25-23 margin. Patrick hit for two more and Griesbach tallied three points, the quarter score ending, 28-28 for Leo.

But the tired Zephyr five could not keep up the grueling pace, and the Chicago five, led by Bill Hunt, put St. Mary behind 35-28. On the next play Resch was out on four violations, and the defensive punch of St. Mary's was gone. The only tally by the Zephyrs in the closing period was a pot by Griesbach.

CAMPION WINS
Chicago—(P)—A high-scoring campaign from Prairie du Chien, Wis. and Central Catholic, Wayne, Ind., bid for quarter-final berths today in the 17th annual national Catholic prep basketball tournament.

Two more first-round games remained today before the 1939 winners inaugurate second-round battling against Messmer of Milwaukee.

Campion, which rang up this year's tournament high score last night in defeating Dowling of Des Moines, Iowa, 50 to 32, tonight faces the only team to enter the meet undefeated—the St. Francis (S. D.) Mission Indians.

The Indians made it 19 in a row last night by running up a 25-4 halftime score against St. Bernard of Bradford, Pa., and then coasting to a 34-18 triumph.

Two individual high-scoring performances also were recorded last night Jimmy Reardon got nine baskets and five free throws for 23 points in Campion's victory. John Hiller went him one point better with 11 goals and two free throws as his St. Michael team from Santa Fe, N. M., swamped Owensboro, Ky., 49 to 16.

Other results yesterday included St. Joseph, Denver, 35; Aquin, Freeport, Ill., 27.

Sacred Heart, Charleston, W. Va., 30; St. Gregory, Shawnee, Okla., 22; St. Simon, New York City, 34; Abbey, Canon City, Colo., 31; Central Catholic, Pittsburgh, 30; Loras, Dubuque, Iowa, 28.

Cubs Dump White Sox by 10-1 Score
Bruins Jump on Ted Lyons for Six Runs in The Second Frame

Los Angeles—(P)—The Chicago Cubs gained their fourth victory in six starts against the Chicago White Sox by drubbing their inter-city rivals yesterday, 10 to 1.

The Cubs clinched the win with a six-run outburst against the veteran Ted Lyons in the second inning. The Sox were unable to bunch hits effectively against Bill Lee and Dick Bass, although they out-hit the Cubs, 10 to 8.

Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs announced that pitcher Al Epperly had been sent to San Francisco outright and that Julian Tubb, another right-handed hurler, had been optioned to San Diego.

Graham Picks Reds' 1940 Darkhorse

McKechnie's Surprise This Year May Be Pitcher John Hutchings

BY DILLON GRAHAM
AMPA, Fla.—It's getting to be almost a spring custom for Bill McKechnie to come up with a surprise package.

Remember how, three years ago, he reached down into the minors and uncovered a pair of ancient old veterans who were the pitching sensations of the year—Jim Turner and Lou Fette? Each won 20 games.

Two years ago Bill spent a lot of early training time down here working on a wild young hurler that other managers had about given up on. When the season got under way that boy, Johnny Vander Meer, pitched the first pair of successive no-hit games in major league baseball history.

Hunch About Hutchings
Last spring McKechnie liked the looks of a young busher from Columbia, S. C. The brand of baseball there isn't so fast, and generally kids from any lower level need more seasoning. But Willy Bill figured this kid was ready.

And he was. Gene Thompson was one of the twirling stars of the year, winning 13 and losing 5. This year Turner, Vander Meer and Thompson, along with Paul Derfinger and Bucky Walters, comprise the first five of Cincinnati's pitching staff.

McKechnie is tutoring several newcomers this year, but I've got a hunch his surprise may be big, blond Johnny Hutchings, a good looking right hander who breezes a fast ball past the plate with whistling speed.

John is 23, has broad shoulders, stands 6 foot 2, weighs 205 pounds and gives the impression that he's strong enough to pitch all day and into the evening.

He's one of the greatest pitchers the Southeastern league ever produced. Burly Johnny set a new league record for strikeouts, whiffing 255 batters. He won 22 games and topped the league in earned run averages with 1.97. If you don't savvy that that is a remarkable performance, just remember that Bucky Walters led the National league with a figure of 2.29.

Johnny has been in baseball five years. He was playing sandlot ball around Chicago when a Cubs scout signed him to play for Peoria. He went out to the Cubs training camp at Catalina island in 1936, but they figured he needed more seasoning.

He's a Triple Threat
He spent a season with Portsmouth, a short stretch with Birmingham, and the last two years with Pensacola. He was almost as good two years ago as he was last season. He won 18 in 1938.

Hutch has a triple threat delivery. He mixes up his fast ball and his curve and confuses the batter by coming in first with an overhand pitch, then a side arm and finally an underhand toss. Hutch says he has equally good control with all of these deliveries. He averaged walking less than two men a game.

It's a good long jump from Class B to the majors, but Hutch may make it.

He's a real prospect," says McKechnie. "Big and fast and strong, with a lot of stuff. He'll have to be brought along slowly, but I think we can use him."

He's one of the greatest pitchers the Southeastern league ever produced. Burly Johnny set a new league record for strikeouts, whiffing 255 batters. He won 22 games and topped the league in earned run averages with 1.97. If you don't savvy that that is a remarkable performance, just remember that Bucky Walters led the National league with a figure of 2.29.

Johnny has been in baseball five years. He was playing sandlot ball around Chicago when a Cubs scout signed him to play for Peoria. He went out to the Cubs training camp at Catalina island in 1936, but they figured he needed more seasoning.

He's a Triple Threat
He spent a season with Portsmouth, a short stretch with Birmingham, and the last two years with Pensacola. He was almost as good two years ago as he was last season. He won 18 in 1938.

Hutch has a triple threat delivery. He mixes up his fast ball and his curve and confuses the batter by coming in first with an overhand pitch, then a side arm and finally an underhand toss. Hutch says he has equally good control with all of these deliveries. He averaged walking less than two men a game.

It's a good long jump from Class B to the majors, but Hutch may make it.

He's a real prospect," says McKechnie. "Big and fast and strong, with a lot of stuff. He'll have to be brought along slowly, but I think we can use him."

'Seven Old Men' Seek Opposition in Ward Basketball Tourney

The 12th ward Beauticians—seven old men' over 26 years of age—have entered the Class E division of the ward basketball tournament being arranged by the Y.M.C.A. And what's more, they have issued a challenge to any other ward boasting of similar talent and their remarks have been directed specifically at Bill Pickett, Ray Monteith, Baldy Eggert and Howie Rehfeldt and Dan Steinberg, Jr. Any team interested has been asked to file its entry in the tournament with Ray Risch, physical director of the association.

Oh, yes. The 'seven old men' are Cecil Furringer, Des Schade, Louis Grishaber, Joe Verrier, Herbert Lutz, Eddie Verbrick and Lyle Vander Velden who comprise a rather talented basketball team—as long as they can keep moving.

Orlando, Fla.—With the hold-out business disposed of by the signing of Zeke Bonura for $10,000 or thereabouts, the New York Giants today checked off another matter by announcing they would not return to Winter Haven next year for training.

Clearwater, Fla.—The Brooklyn Dodgers took today off to prepare for the homeward jaunt that will begin tonight with a hop to America, Ga. Meanwhile Sam Nahem, the pitcher who was optioned to Nashville, was still around town hoping to change his status.

Tallahassee, Fla.—Babe Dahlgren is going to be the New York Yankee's first baseman again this year and nobody has had much doubt about it. But the champions' masterminds are looking ahead and have Mike Chartak tagged for future delivery at that spot. He was optioned to the Newark farm today with instructions to play him at first base instead of his old post on the outfield.

Little Theater to Present 4 Plays

Two to be Staged April 7
And Two Others Scheduled for April 21

Combined Looks — The Little Theater group met Wednesday evening at the school hall. After the business meeting two plays were rehearsed. Two of the four plays will be presented Sunday, April 7, and the other two will be staged Sunday, April 21. "Rumors Wanted" and "Henry's Mail Order Wife" were the two chosen to be given April 7.

It was decided at the meeting that songs will be sung in three languages: Mrs. C. Smaxwill, Swiss song; Mr. Martin Bolwerk, Holland song; and Mrs. John Menting, American song.

The casts include: "Rumors Wanted": Grover Spratt—Emery Hartzheim; Mr. Peter Deems—Mrs. Sidney Wells; Aggie Spratt—Mrs. K. Piepenberg; Mary Lou Spratt—Miss L. Jones; Grandma Seagrave—Mrs. L. Hartzheim; Mrs. Merryweather—Mrs. John Scherer; Mrs. Huggings—Mrs. Dan Williams.

"Henry's Mail Order Wife": Henry Gubbons—Mr. Williams; Abe Smithers—Jack Siegel; Jim Jones—Mr. Martin Bolwerk; Becky Simpson—Mrs. C. Smaxwill; Henry's wife—Mrs. John Menting; The minister—Sidney Wells.

Rubbish collection has been postponed until Wednesday, because of election day Tuesday.

Returned to the dead letter office during 1939 were 64,978 enclosures containing money which amounted to $84,407.

Friendly Circle Has Meeting at Mike Mack Dwelling at Shiocton

Shiocton — The Friendly Circle was entertained at the home of Mrs. Mike Mack Wednesday afternoon. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. George Penn and Mrs. Cash Twitchell. The program included a prayer, reading of verses, singing hymns and sewing.

Members present were Mrs. Milo Singler, Mrs. Louis Schwall, Mrs. Harry Allender, Mrs. Amelia Washburn, Mrs. Earl Meeting, Mrs. George Penn, Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Cash Twitchell, Miss Tena Cance, Mrs. George Jones, Mrs. Ray Wilkenson, Mrs. Mike Mack, Mrs. Carl Johnson and Mrs. Herman Miller. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Allender who will be assisted by Mrs. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Mearl McCully entertained relatives at their home Wednesday. The occasion was the birthday anniversary of the latter. Cards were played and a lunch was served.

Men's high score at five hundred went to Lyle McCully and low to Mearl McCully. Mrs. D. J. McCully received high for women, and Mrs. Phil Palmer, low.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McCully, New London; Mrs. Mary McCully, Galesburg; Mr. and Mrs. Phil Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. J. McCully, Shiocton.

Miss Helen Donaldson of Saginaw, Mich., spent a few days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ray Wilkenson, this week. Barb Allender, James Payton, Will Puls and Will Conrad left Wednesday morning on a business trip through the south. They will stop enroute at Bismark, Ill., where they will visit Earl Payton, a brother of James Payton.

HOME TELEVISION
Pictures through the air! They are among the wonders of the modern world. Think of a picture of a man in England being sent through the air, so it can be printed in a newspaper over here on the same day!

The "eye" of a television camera. This invention is known as an "iconoscope."

In regard to home television, things are happening more slowly. We cannot look at our battles and see scenes of battles abroad. If the time does come when people everywhere see the battlefields by television, it may do a great deal to bring an end to warfare. We see pictures of fighting after a battle is over, but that is not the same thing as watching its horrors while it is going on.

In some places there is home television today. Pictures and sounds are broadcast together. That means good progress, but what the people want is to have television everywhere. The excuse given for the slow spread of this kind of broadcasting is its cost. If inventors and other experts in the field work hard, there is no doubt that the cost can be cut down. This has been true of other great inventions. Take the automobile, for example. In 1910 a good car used to cost from $2,000 to $5,000. Today we can buy a far better car for $800 than was made by any company in 1910.

The world moves on. Television pictures have been broadcast from airplanes! We are told that a large number of Italian airplanes have been fitted with sets which will do this work. A great deal of television broadcasting has been done with the help of an instrument called the "iconoscope." It has been nicknamed "the eye of a television camera," and the work it does may be compared to the work of an eye. Rays of light strike the iconoscope, and are changed before going farther on their way.

The great secret of television is a change from ordinary light rays to electric waves. The electric waves speed through space and can go through hills or buildings. At the other end they are changed back from electric waves to light rays. It all happens in a split second. A person many miles distant sees a television speaker, and may observe him while he smiles or laughs.

At the same time the image is seen, the voice can be heard. Sound waves are turned into electric waves and in that form they travel as fast as the waves which carry the picture. (For Invention or General Interest section of your scrapbook.) A leaflet called "Famous Music Masters" may be had by sending a 3c stamp, return envelope to me in care of this paper.

Church to Hold Father and Son Dinner Thursday

Banquet Will be Held in Hortonville Community Hall

The annual father and son banquet of Community Baptist church, Hortonville, will be held next Thursday evening in Community hall under the auspices of the Current Topics club of the church. Ladies Aid society will serve the banquet at 6:30, and there will be a program and community singing. The Rev. J. W. Herring, Milwaukee, will give the principal address. At the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning at the church the Rev. L. T. Foreman, pastor, will speak on "A Jailor in Alarm." During the Bible study lesson at 10 o'clock, the subject, "The Kingdom and Missions," will be discussed.

St. Mary Catholic church at Greenville will have mass at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, while at St. Patrick's church, Stephenville, the mass will be at 8:30. Confessions will be heard Saturday evening at St. Patrick's church. Services will be held at 8:45 Sunday morning at St. Paul Lutheran church, Stephenville, and at 10 o'clock at the Methodist church.

Masses at St. Peter and Paul Catholic church, Hortonville, will be celebrated at 8 and 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

April Fool Party
"Keeping the Sacred Fire Burning" will be the sermon topic at 10:30 Sunday morning at St. John Evangelical church, Black Creek. Sunday school will be at 9:30. Women's Union will meet next Wednesday afternoon, and the Evangelical League will have an April Fool party Monday night.

Immanuel Lutheran church, Black Creek, will have an English service at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, the sermon to be on "The Patience of Christians in Suffering." Sunday school will be at 11 o'clock. Ladies Aid society will meet next Wednesday afternoon.

A service will be held at 9:15 and Sunday school at 10:30 at the Methodist church, Black Creek, Sunday. Ladies Aid society will meet next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. A. Bauernfeind, captain of Circle 3. Other members of the circle who will assist her are Mrs. Fred Samsen, Mrs. N. A. Shauger, Mrs. John Dunn, Mrs. Harold Ott and Mrs. R. H. Sander.

Mass will be celebrated at 8:30 Sunday morning at St. Denis Catholic church, Shiocton, and high mass at 10 o'clock at St. Mary church, Black Creek.

Auctioneers to Have Busy Week

Cattle, Horses and Other Personal Property Will Go on Block

A. J. Thiel, Chilton, will conduct five auctions at farms next week. The first will be held Monday at the Rueben Stanelle farm two miles north of Forest Junction. Wednesday a sale will be held at the Mrs. Adam Kohl farm about four miles northwest of Appleton on County Trunk A. Thursday a sale will be held at the Edith Fluess farm eight miles southwest of Manitowish. Thiel will be in charge of an auction Friday at the Ben Schulz farm a mile west of Neenah, and on Saturday at the Charles Fritsch farm five miles northeast of Brillion.

M. J. Samsen, Seymour, will conduct two sales next week. Wednesday he will be in charge of a horse auction at the Arnold Smith farm a mile south of New London on Highway 45, and on Thursday will conduct a sale at the Les Rohm farm a half mile west of Center Valley.

Milk Production Is on Increase

Average Per Farm in State On March 1 Highest Since 1926

Wisconsin milk production per farm on March 1 was higher than a year ago and the highest for that date since 1926, according to a crop reporting service bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent.

March 1 reports indicate that the feeding of grains and concentrates to Wisconsin dairy herds has been exceptionally heavy, which has been a major factor in the heavy milk production. In addition to this there is a slightly larger number of milk cows per farm than last year and February weather was favorable to milk production.

Milk production per farm in the state on March 1 was estimated at 252 pounds, which is nearly 6 percent above the level of a year ago. An increase of 11 per cent in the amount of grains and concentrates fed per herd compared with a year ago is shown in the reports of Wisconsin dairy correspondents. These correspondents also reported an average feeding of 531 pounds of grain and concentrates per milk cow, the highest feeding ever reported on March 1 and one of the highest figures reported for any month since records have been kept. The average amount of feed per herd per day on March 1 was 80 pounds.

Purchase Young Bull At State Reformatory

A young Holstein bull of the Wisconsin State reformatory has been purchased by Otto Mossholder and Sons, route 2, Appleton. The young bull is the son of Meadow Ormsby Beauty 2nd a cow which showed successfully with the Wisconsin herd in 1936. She produced 949.75 pounds of butter with a 3.9 per cent test at six years of age, and 1,196.1 pounds with a 4.1 per cent test at eight years of age.

A measure of the aphid resistance of that variety. The lower the number of aphids, the greater the resistance of the variety.

Develop Method of Testing Peas for Aphid Resistance

An improved method of testing peas for resistance to aphids has been developed, according to a department of agriculture bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent.

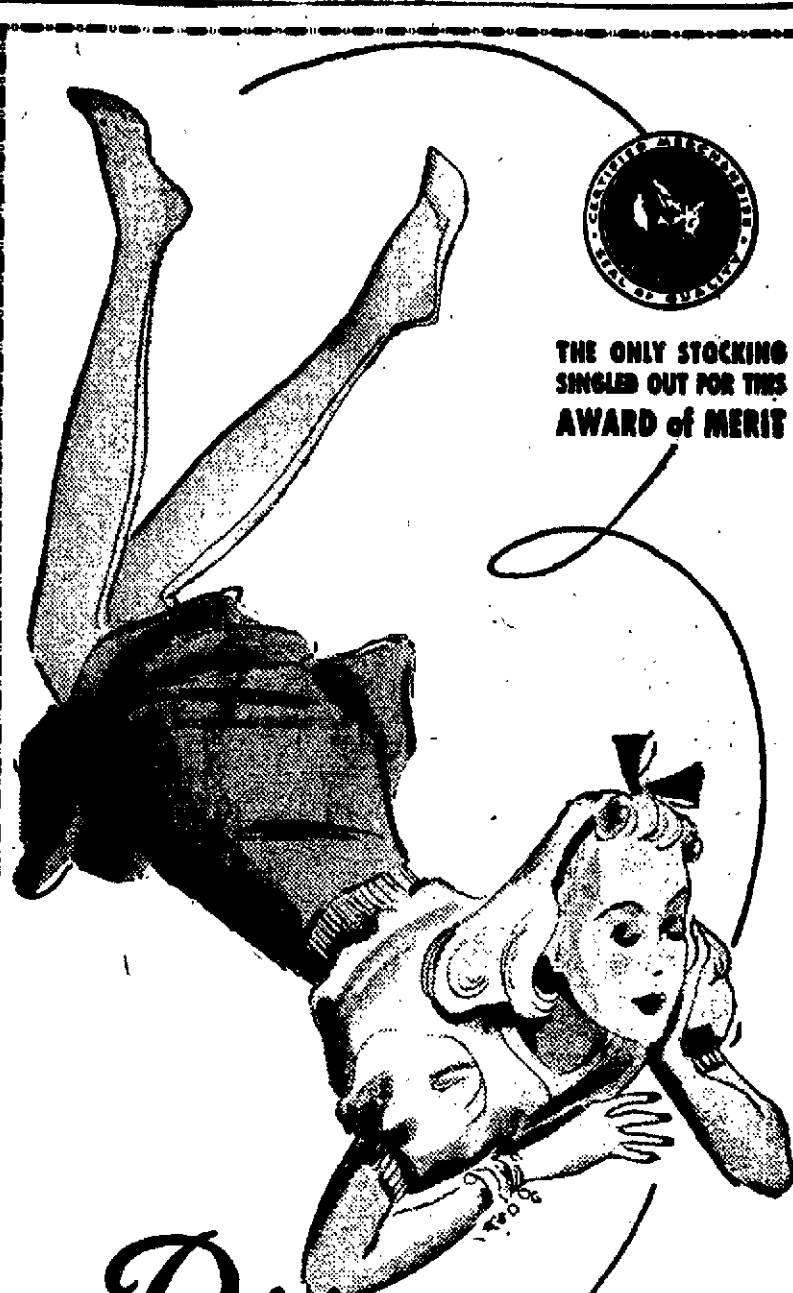

The advantages of the new technique worked out by C. D. Harrington, E. M. Searls, and R. A. Brink of the University of Wisconsin are that it is more accurate than any previously known method; that it is comparatively rapid, since it enables one man to test 60 varieties for aphid resistance in a month; and because it is a greenhouse method, it enables the work to go on in any season. The method, it is said, may be adapted for use in the field if desired.

Development of this technique was thought to be a necessary preliminary before the university could proceed with pea-breeding work to develop improved aphid-resistant strains. While it is thought that several years of work will be needed to determine whether it is possible to develop such peas, the way is now open to make the attempt.

Under the method devised by Harrington, Searls and Brink, the plants to be tested in the greenhouse are mounted in testing racks when they reach 15 days of age. The racks consist of a base which holds the plant containers, and a platform adjustable to any height between 6 and 18 inches.

The growing tip of the plant is pushed through an opening in the platform, which then is plugged with cotton to prevent aphids from escaping downward. Each plant tip is infested with one freshly reproducing pure-line aphid, and covered with a lantern globe to confine the aphid and its progeny.

The average number of aphids produced upon a given variety in a carefully measured period, and under known temperatures, is taken as
